FEAR MEN TRAPPED IN BOILER ROOM

Believe Engineer and Firemen Were Caught in Great Flood of Molasses

Four more deaths were today believed to have been added to the casualty list caused by the explosion of the molasses tank on Commercial street.

An engineer and three firemen were thought to have been caught in the boiler room beneath the wrecked tank which was flooded with heavy molasses.

While checking up with the officials of the United States Industrial Alcohol company, Captain Matthew L. Daley of Police Headquarters learned that an engineer and three firemen were on duty in the boiler room at all times.

Steps were at once taken to extract the molasses, which had thickened to such an extent that it may take days to pump it out.

To add to the horror of the situation, live steam was discovered coming from a pipe which protruded through the heavy fluid. Fearful that a fire still burning in the boilers might cause a fire that would burn the bodies beyond recognition, city employes, firemen and policemen worked like madmen to remove the molasses.

ROOM WAS FLOODED.

The boiler room was about six feet underground, reached by a short flight of steps. When the big tank blew up the molasses surged into this room and filled it completely.

It was also reported that an unidentified man, driver of an automobile truck, had been engulfed in the great wave of molasses. This man was last seen loading his truck at the electric freight shed with a helper. It is known that the helper escaped, but no trace of the truck driver has been found. His machine, badly battered, was discovered in the ruins of the shed.

SAILOR RESCUED.

All of the cellars in the vicinity of the explosion are filled with molasses. A peculiar accident happened when Peter Latartee of Lawrence, passing No. 544 Commercial street, fell down a bulkhead and was nearly drowned in molasses. It was with some difficulty that he could make an outcry after submerging once, but some bystanders happened to hear his muffled cries and went to the rescue. He was nearly suffocated when he was rescued.

William Kelcher, a sailor attached to Fiske Wharf, and residing at Lewiston, Me., admitted today that he was all right and not harmed in any

26TH MEN BACK ON BELGIC

Will Be Brought to Camp Devens After Short Isolation Period in New York

New York, Jan. 16.—More than 300 Massachusetts draftees, who had fought with the 26th and 27th divisions in the fiercest battles of the world war at Chateau Thierry, Verdun and in the Argonne forest, returned to the United States today on the White Star liner Belgic and, after being isolated for forty-eight hours at Camp Mills, Long Island, they will be sent to Camp Devens, where they will be demobilized.

Homer Rodeheaver, the famous trombonelst, who has been unique figure at all "Billy" Sunday revivals, also returned on the Belgic.

Rodheaver paid a high tribute to the men and officers of the 26th Division and declared that these men from New England had yet to know what fear meant.

BRAVEST OF MEN.

"I was with the 26th Division at Argonne, doing religious work for the Y. M. C. A." declared the evangelist, "and I had a great opportunity to see just what these boys had gone through and what they were made of, and I want you to know that braver and better men don't live than made up that New England division.

"Once when I was holding a revival meeting in a theatre near the front lines, a regiment from the 26th Division came into the place on the way to the front. They were to go into action at daybreak. They asked me to pray for them and they all prayed and sang with me. We sang Billy Sunday's great hymn, "Brighten the Corner Where You Are,' and then the brave boys left for the front. Most of them never returned.

"At another place I met some more of the 26th Division men, and they told me that they had been hunting all over to find a priest as they wanted to make their confession before they went into battle. I told them I would try and get them one, and I travelled most of the night and brought back a priest from one of the hospitals, who heard their confessions."

MANY OF THEM WOUNDED.

Most of the New England men aboard the Belgic had either been wounded or gassed during the latter months of war, but none of them returned as invalids, although several of them were all shot up in the drives to dislodge the Hoche from the famous Hindenburg line.

Among them was Sergeant Frank L. Crafts of Allerton, attached to the 101st Field Battery, Signal Corps, who was gassed in the Argonne on November 6. Crafts with four others of the Signal Corps were in advance communication station between the artillery and the infantry, when a gas shell exploded near them. Before they could recover their poise and adjust their gas masks they were overcome by the fumes. Sergeant Jos. Simmons of Charlestown, who was with Crafts, is still confined in the hospital at Paris from the effects of the gas.

"Boston has never had the honor of officially receiving you as President. Will you grant us this privilege by returning to America through the port of Boston?

"Andrew J. Peters,
"Mayor of Boston."

WILSON MOVES FOR PUBLICITY ON PEACE

By JOHN EDWIN NEVIN.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Paris, Jan. 16.—The Russian situation and the relations between the peace conference and the press were discussed at a meeting of President Wilson and the Prime Ministers of the allied powers today.

It is understood that President Wilson and Premier Lloyd-George will insist that the peace conference make provision for further publicity as a result of the protest against the "gag rule."

Premier Brattiano arrived today from Rumania.

Today's meeting began at the Foreign Office at 10:30 o'clock and lasted until 12:30. It was decided to meet the representatives of the press at 5 o'clock this afternoon for an interchange of views on the methods to be adopted in giving out official information.

It was agreed by the conferees that

SUCCESSOR TO GRADY NAMED

Head of Finance Commission Appointed as Boston Fire Commissioner

John R. Murphy of Charlestown, chairman of the Finance Commission and a well-known Boston politician, was today appointed Fire Commissioner by Mayor Peters, in place of Fire Commissioner John Grady, who has held over in office since last May.

The appointment, which was forecasted in the American several days ago, marks another step in the public career of the new commissioner, who has probably held more important offices at City Hall than any other men in Boston. A salary of $5,000 a year goes with the office of fire commissioner, which is equal to the salary Commissioner Murphy received as head of the Finance Commission.

SUCCESSFUL LAWYER.

Commissioner Murphy is one of the most prominent lawyers in Boston and has built up an excellent practice. He is sixty-two years of age and was forty-five when he took up the study of law in the Boston University Law School. He successfully completed a three years' course in fifteen months.

Previous to studying law Commissioner Murphy had been a member of the State Legislature for four years—three years as Representative and one as Senator from Charlestown, where he has lived all his life. He ran for Mayor of Boston against Patrick A. Collins and was defeated by a narrow margin. It was this defeat that caused him to give up politics and study law.

SECOND TIME IN OFFICE.

From boyhood Commissioner Murphy has been noted as a public speaker, and his forceful eloquence has been a big factor in his success.

This is the second time John R. Murphy has been fire commissioner of Boston. He was appointed fire commissioner by Mayor Hugh O'Brien in 1885, when he was a member of the State Senate. He was fire commissioner at the time of the Boston fire in 1892 and resigned at the conclusion of the investigation which exonerated the fire department.

Mayor Matthews did not want to accept his resignation, but Commissioner Murphy insisted, and the Mayor finally got him to accept the position of wire commissioner. Under Murphy's direction the wires of the city were put underground, and it only took two years to do the work. In 1896 he was appointed water commissioner, and resigned that office in 1899 to enter the Mayoralty fight against Collins. He succeeded John A. Sullivan as chairman of the Boston Finance Commission in February, 1914.

Commissioner Murphy lives at No. 27 Cortis street, Charlestown. He is married and has three daughters.

JOHN R. MURPHY, chairman of the Finance Commission, appointed Fire Commissioner of Boston by Mayor Peters today.

BOSTON LINERS RESUME TRIPS NEXT MONTH

First Transatlantic Traffic Since War to Be Taken Up by Canopic and Cretic

The first trans-Atlantic freight and passenger traffic out of the port of Boston since the ceasing of hostilities will be inaugurated by the White Star Line when the steamships Cretic and Canopic, which have been released by the British government, resume sailings about February 15.

These ships are now being repaired and refitted and will go when ready on the Mediterranean service between Boston, New York and Mediterranean ports, via the Azores. The ships will sail from New York, but will call at Boston for passengers and freight on their way to Europe. On the return trip Boston will be the first port made, where all passengers will be discharged, the ship then proceeding to New York to unload and load freight.

It is expected that a great number of Italians will be allowed by the government to return home to see their families who they have not seen for several years. Some of these men will remain in Italy.

An office has been opened in the Custom House tower by the Immigration Department for the issuance of permits to these people. Until the government lifts the ban there will be no tourist permits granted for Europe, although it is thought that travellers may be allowed to go to the Azores while not to the European main land.

RATIFICATION BY 37 STATES

By International News Service.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—The Nebraska Legislature ratified the national prohibition amendment today, completing the required thirty-six States necessary for national prohibition. The amendment goes into effect in one year.

Shortly afterward Missouri ratified the amendment, bringing the total of States to thirty-seven.

The States that had previously ratified the amendment were:

WON IN YEAR'S FIGHT.

The great drive by which the leaders of the prohibition movement have brought about ratification of the amendment in less than thirteen months from the day it was finally voted upon by Congress is one of the remarkable features of the campaign. When the amendment was before Congress the "wets" forced the adoption of a clause which provided that if the requisite number of States did not ratify the amendment within seven years, it would be inoperative. It was the hope of the "wets" that they would be able to prevent ratification in a number of States so the amendment would fail during the seven years and the movement would have to be started all over again.

But the "dry" leaders opposed the clause, not because they doubted their ability to force ratification by States in a much shorter time than

40 KILLED IN RENEWAL OF DUSSELDORF BATTLE

Brussels, Jan. 15, via London, Jan. 16.—Forty persons were killed and many wounded in a fresh outburst of fighting between Spartacans and government troops at Dusseldorf. British troops recently went into Dusseldorf to restore order and were regarded to be makers of the situation there.

77,000 DEMAND 6-MONTHS' PAY FOR HEROES

Seventy-seven thousand men and women have signed the petition of the Boston American "Soldiers Friend" for the discharge as quickly as possible, with six months pay, of all soldiers in the service.

Nothing like the popularity of this petition was ever before known in Boston. It is sweeping the city like wildfire, increasing its adherents by thousands daily.

The great army of petitioners was recruited in just four days, or at the rate of nearly 20,000 a day, and proves that, in launching this petition, the American is performing a public and patriotic service that touches a responsive chord in the hearts of all alike.

Office and factory buildings have been thoroughly canvassed by those who are circulating the petition, numbered among whom are 150 soldiers the initial action to be taken toward the solution of the problem.

REASSEMBLE TOMORROW.

The conference will reassemble tomorrow at 10:30 o'clock.

Should the conference decide publicity may be given to the official information concerning the action taken, the official communiqué will be issued in English, French and Italian, and copies will be kept more or less in the order, except for local editions of official statement.

Only the actual decisions would be told to the correspondents, which means that the American Congress as well as the people of the United States, would lack the important details surrounding these decisions and the debate which accompanied them.

Both the American and British press representatives are emphatically protesting against this method of procedure. It was officially stated whether this means that the American commissioners will refuse to receive the reporters in accordance for confidential talks, but the facts indicate that any such meetings would be limited.

STATUS OF THE "BIG FIVE."

The programme for tomorrow's conference in the peace plenipotentiaries will keep on Saturday morning next, but fully indicates that there will be a double session of the supreme inter-allied war council on Wednesday. However the question of Japanese representation was settled and it is now a matter of official record that Japan is one of the "Big Five" powers.

The delegation of Japan will consist of Baron Makino, Viscount Chinda, Kikujiro Ishii, Hirobumi Ozaki and Hikokichi Wadasaki.

The number of delegates accredited to each nation does not figure in the question of apportioning its representation, the entire delegation will vote as a unit.

Wilson's Plan Only Way for Practical Peace, Says German Chancellor

By Special Correspondent of the London Daily Express and Universal Service.

Berne, Jan. 16.—"Our hands are tied. We must give up the great task upon the accomplishment of which the fate of the young German republic depends," declared Dr. Friedrich Ebert, the German chancellor, to me.

"We must succeed at the end of a week's conference, marked by endless opposition, or the Liberty government will be forced to declare the acid test.

"The hours continued. My one argument in favor of Wilson's fourteen points we already succumbed to the pressure of the French and British in our country. What has been lost in time deciding we can write off as irrecoverable. HELD IN $65,000 BAIL FOR SHOOTING A POLICEMAN

Lawrence, Jan. 16.—William Lawrence, age twenty-one, living at No. 2 Elm street, was arraigned in the Andover court today charged with assault with a dangerous weapon, carrying a loaded revolver and breaking and entering, and was ordered held in $65,000 by Judge Cole of Boston for a Grand Jury hearing.

Lawrence, whose real home, it is claimed, is in Hopkins, Minn., held up an unknown man in Andover, shortly before midnight last night, and then proceeded to the garage of Myerough & Buchan where Raymond Buchan was about to lock up for the night. With Buchan at the time was Policeman John Sullivan of Andover. They heard a noise, and on investigation discovered Lawrence prowling about the premises.

They grappled with and succeeded after a hard struggle in overpowering him. On the way to a lockup, Lawrence suddenly wheeled about and pulling a revolver fired two shots at the policeman, one of which went through the desby part of his leg, while the other was deflected by a button on the officer's coat shoulder. May pulled his night stick and used it effectively on the prisoner.

REPORT 20,000 OUT OF WORK IN BOSTON

By International News Service.

Washington, Jan. 16.—During the adoption of legislation barring immigration for a period of at least two years, as embodied in resolutions passed by the convention, Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, before the House immigration Committee today, declared that the unemployment situation in the United States was assuming alarming proportions.

Postmaster-General Burleson, the Bethlehem Steel Company, and the Steel Trust are responsible for the growth of Bolshevism in this country, Morrison declared later on.

SAYS SOLDIERS WORKED FOR OFFICERS

By THOMAS F. PHELAN.

Camp Devens, Ayer, Jan. 16.—Captain Harry J. Harris, commander of the Salvage Depot, Quartermaster Corps, told a court-martial board in session here that he knew of cases where soldiers worked on government time for officers more than a month. He is being tried on charges of having misappropriated government property, being irregular in his accounts and assigning enlisted men to work at his home, No. 58 University road, Brookline.

Captain Harris was questioned at length concerning labor performed by Private Patrick at the Harris home in Brookline. He testified he considered such labor the duty of an orderly.

"I know of periods of an orderly being taken from an officer at his home for a month or more," testified the witness. "I considered that if it was fair for one officer to have a soldier work at his house it was fair for another. I needed the work done and, as it was impossible to obtain labor from commercial life, decided to have Private Patrick do it."

"Can you recall instances of where an officer had soldiers move his furniture from one place to another in an army truck?"

"There are so many instances I cannot count them."

Q—In this camp?. A.—Yes, sir.

Q—Will you name one instance where an officer had his furniture moved? A.—Yes, Lieutenant-Colonel Powell's family was moved from Shirley to Boston.

Q—Did Lieutenant-Colonel Powell make a request to move the furniture? A.—He was in France, Mrs. Powell made the request. The Powell family lived next door to me in Shirley.

Q.—When you had your furniture moved from Shirley to Brookline did you make a request for an army truck? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Why? A.—Because I had entire control of the trucks.

Witness was quizzed by members of court-martial as to the length of time Private Patick worked at his home.

"That I cannot say, probably six or eight weeks," he testified.

Witness, in answer to questions about the delivery of twenty tons of army coal to his home, said he suffered to pay $175.15 for it, but was told by Captain Smith it was too late. He said he made a formal request for the bill for the coal on November 4 and again on December 6.

"It was not paid for through any fault of mine," he testified. Witness said e did not pay the men who delivered the coal anything for their work.

MUSIC FESTIVAL TO MARK PEACE FEBRUARY 21-22

Nearly every nationality in Greater Boston will be represented in a great music festival and international peace demonstration to be held at Mechanics Building on February 21 and 22, which is to be staged to assist returning soldiers and sailors to find employment.

It will be the greatest musical demonstration in this city since the memorable five-day peace jubilee in Boston in 1869, which was part of a nation-wide celebration over the return of peace after the Civil War. According to present plans, appropriate recognition of the fiftieth anniversary of this jubilee will be made at the forthcoming festival.

A people's chorus of 1,000 voices, which are being recruited by Alfred Hallam, musical director of the War Camp Community Service, will occupy a specially constructed stage. According to present plans, there will be an orchestra of about 150 instruments.

The festival will be presented under the auspices of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, operating with the War Camp Community Service and other agencies interested in the project of placing discharged soldiers in employment.

MAYOR CALLED UPON TO CUT EXPENSES

A curtailment of the Mayors street program, together with a conference between the Mayor and the school committee, with the idea of instituting economies in that branch of the city government, were suggested to the Mayor today by the Finance Commission.

The commission, in at eighty report, delves into the financial outlook for the coming year. It points out that due to Federal legislation the city will lose in liquor licenses the sum of $850,000. On the street railway tax the commission says $10,000 will be lost.

It figures a shrinkage of $240,000 in the collection of taxes and says: "An empty treasury will face the city at the end of the financial year, unless the receipts equal of the city collector's meets with sudden response."

The commission reports other reductions in the city's income.

The auditor of the Boston Elevated Railway Company informs the commission that the present deficit, after the "months' operation, is $3,200,000, and by June 1, 1919, it may be between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000. The share which Boston will be called upon to bear is likely to be approximately $4,000,000. These factors, thus brought together, show a total as follows:

REDUCTIONS IN INCOME.

Liquor licenses	$850,000
Street railway tax	10,000
Shrinkage in taxes collected	240,000
Reduction in income due to shrinkage in average valuation of city	147,700
NEW EXPENSES.
Salary increases	278,000
Additional weekly payroll	182,000
Deficit Boston Elevated Railway	4,000,000

MAYOR STARTS THOROUGH PROBE TO FIX BLAME FOR EXPLOSION

SEARCH RUINS FOR DEAD

Authorities Busy Among Debris and Wreckage for Other Possible Victims

way after his experience in the explosion. Keleher was reported killed, but was simply covered with molasses and was later rescued.

The body of the little girl killed in the explosion has been at last identified as Maria Distasio, aged eleven years, of No. 115 Charter street. Her young brother is also reported missing. The body was identified by her uncle, Antonio Leone.

The victim, upon whose clothes was found a watertight pass having the name of Thomas Noon of No. 7 Prospect avenue, Charlestown, was identified today by his wife.

MAYOR THANKS RELIEF WORKERS

Boston is appalled at the terrible accident in the North End," said Mayor Peters. "On behalf of the citizens I extend to the families of those who were injured and of those who lost their lives, our most heartfelt sympathy. Boston will aid them in every way possible.

"At this time I want to publicly express my gratitude to the Horton Red Cross for its splendid service at the scene of the accident, and I also wish to thank Captain Rush, commandant of the Boston Navy Yard, for his generous offer of food to aid us, an offer which fortunately it was not necessary for us to accept.

"The officers and men of the U. S. S. Granger, who were the first on the scene of the accident, have our most sincere gratitude, as have the men of the army dispatched by General Edwards, and all others who lent their aid.

"An occurrence of this kind must not and cannot pass without a rigid investigation to determine the cause of the explosion, not only to prevent a recurrence of such a frightful accident, but to place the responsibility where it belongs. Such an investigation will be conducted by the Corporation Counsel under my direction."

INVESTIGATION STARTED.

Assistant Corporation Counsel George Flynn was on the scene early today at the command of Mayor Peters. Colonel Thomas F. Sullivan, recently mustered out of the army, who was also ordered to take whatever action he thought necessary.

Accompanied by a stenographer, Mr. Flynn was prepared to question officials of the United States Industrial Alcohol Company, owners of the exploded tank, and also consult a conference of counsel for the company, Henry P. Dolan of Dolan, Morson & Stebbins.

Mr. Flynn declared that a rigid investigation was warranted and that the city would go to any extent to find out who was responsible.

Details of the construction of the tank were given out by Mr. Flynn. "The big container was built in 1915 of five-eighths-inch steel plates, riveted. It rests on a concrete foundation which was built by the Hugh Nawn Construction Company.

"Settling of foundation may have sagged and given away, or the tank may have expanded, is the question now occupying the attention of the investigators.

Molasses was being sent from the tank every night to the distilling company in Cambridge. It was shipped in steam cars constructed to run over tracks of the Boston Elevated Railway.

Five professors from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, engineering department were on the spot today, assisting investigators in the interest of the company.

At the office of District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier it was announced that no action had as yet been decided upon. However, State Chemist Walter Wedger, with Chief Neal of the State police, was on hand, together with United States Explosives Inspector Daniel F. O'Connell.

"I'm not going to take any action against anybody concerned in the explosion of the molasses tank yesterday until the authorities ascertain just what actually happened," said District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier today. "After the authorities make their report if any action is necessary you may be assured it will be taken by this office."

ADVANCE COLLAPSE THEORY.

Collapse of the building instead of an explosion caused the disaster which wrecked the United States Industrial Alcohol Company's great molasses tank and killed at least eleven persons, in the opinion of officials who today visited the ruins.

The new theory was expressed by Assistant Corporation Counsel George A. Flynn, who went to the scene of wreckage to get evidence in the investigation which the city has started to determine the cause. Although Mr. Flynn declined to discuss the new theory, he admitted that it was being entertained by the authorities.

"There seems to be a question among officials as to whether the cause of the catastrophe was collapse of the building or an explosion. That is all I can say," he stated.

The opinion was derived, Mr. Flynn added, from statements made by those present when the disaster took place.

"I have talked with several eyewitnesses," he said, "and the majority of them did not believe that there was any explosion. They said that the sounds were more like a concussion—a rumbling and then a great wave of molasses. I shall continue my investigations along these lines."

SEARCH RUINS FOR DEAD.

A squad of policemen from the Hanover street station, under Sergeant Anderson, together with city employes and 100 men from the Hugh Nawn Construction Company, were busy early today searching through the debris, fearful that more bodies might be found. Sergeant Anderson stated that a possibility existed that bodies might be found in the boiler room, which is 30 feet underground and full of molasses. It will be impossible to learn anything definite for some time.

Although the work of removing the debris from the Commercial street side of the explosion began early today in an effort to locate four bodies that are still missing, none has as yet been found. The place is littered with heaps of wood, brick and mortar and it is believed that the missing one are underneath these piles. The street is still ankle deep in thick, black Porto Rican molasses and Commercial street has been roped off by the police to keep back the curious.

Work on the Elevated structure was begun early today, and is to be rushed with all possible speed in order to get the Atlantic avenue loop into commission at the earliest possible date. One of the heavy supports was entirely blown out, a second was bent and twisted, and two sections of track are sagging badly.

TODAY'S VIEW OF RUINS OF TANK EXPLOSION TRAGEDY

Workmen and teams are busily engaged today in clearing away the debris of the North End catastrophe. Diligent search is being made in the wreckage for the bodies of more victims.

Stories of Explosion Find All Aiding in Rescues

Many years of military training proved to be a most valuable asset to Colonel Thomas F. Sullivan, Boston's Public Works Commissioner, who took supervision of the rescue work until Major Peters arrived. Colonel "Tom" snapped out his orders and followed them up by doing a goodly share with his men. Bedecked in hip rubber boots, he worked like a Trojan. Discovering that his men were not equipped with rubber boots, he rushed an emergency order to a nearby rubber goods house and shortly after each of his squad was properly protected.

Who will reimburse the noble lads of the good ship Nantucket for the "dress blues" they ruined in doing rescue work? It was these lads, together with their officers, who were the first to arrive at the scene. One lad said, "Well, we've got our fatigue suits on anyway, but each go calling on our girls in them." These chaps walked knee deep in the molasses, never for a moment considering their own danger. They were responsible for the saving of many lives.

Russell McLean of No. 40 Janet street, Roxbury, was following into a doorway across Commercial street by the force of the explosion.

"I was on my way to the North Station when I heard a muffled roar and felt the building I was passing, he said. "The next thing I remember I lay in a doorway across the street with a young lady unconscious in my lap. I remembered having seen her coming towards me just before the explosion. All around me people and men were wallowing in the thick molasses. I got conscientious aid and was revived at the Relief Station."

McLean sustained a fracture of the right wrist and the right arm, besides internal injuries. His fate was barred by the blast.

"Eddie" Moore, the Mayor's secretary, was on the job. He secured a pair of rubber boots and aided in many rescues. "Eddie" was much concerned over the missing city employes and tendered valuable assistance in checking them up. He called at the homes of these men and informed members of the family what had happened, always wishing his conversation with "Now, don't worry, my good woman, he's probably right around here somewhere and we haven't just found him—that's all."

There's an unnamed hero in the Fire Department, too. Yes, many of them, but this one in particular performed an act worthy of hundreds of saved scores of lives. Instead of joining his men in fighting the fire, he climbed the Elevated structure with the aid of a ladder and ran towards the Battery street station. He did this just in time to flag a train bound for the North station well filled with passengers. This train came to a standstill just about 100 feet from the spot where the structure crashed into the street. He was cheered for his act. A crowd surrounded him when he landed on the ground but he slipped by the gathering and joined his crew.

One of the freaks of the explosion was the peculiar manner in which the old O'Brien house was wrecked. It was the residence of the late "Chief" O'Brien, one time president of the old Common Council. The first story of the house was blown 200 feet away from its original position while the top story and roof crashed to the earth in its cellar. A bed belonging in this house was found on the beach 300 feet away, neatly made up, and standing upright.

One man—name unknown—will never forget his experience. He was running away from the onrush of molasses when it overtook him. He landed in a sitting position in the sticky stuff and was carried with it right out into the harbor. The crew of the naval tug Pawnee picked him up—somewhat sticky and frightened but very thankful.

A sailor and a girl were talking on the Atlantic avenue sidewalk. They saw the "wave of molasses" coming and separated. The girl managed to escape, but witnesses state that the sailor boy tripped and was buried in the avalanche. A sailor's cap was found, but up to late hour last night the young lady had not heard from him. It is believed that the sailor was buried in the debris.

A pathetic sight was the unscarred corpse of a woman who had fallen in the molasses and suffocated.

It would be difficult to estimate the loss in ruined uniforms of firemen, policemen, sailors, soldiers and Red Cross workers. Soiled clothes apparently were the last things to be thought of by these men and women. Many an officer, both in the fire and police ranks, ruined every stitch of clothing he had on. The molasses just stuck to them from head to foot. Officers and men of the navy and army waded in regardless of clothes. It was a wonderful spirit.

Sitting peacefully in a puddle of molasses was a perfectly good silk hat. Someone laughingly remarked that it must have been the Mayor's—but no—he appeared in regulation derby.

The Mayor arrived shortly after he received the report and immediately started an investigation. The Mayor expressing deep sympathy for the dead and injured and assuring the relatives and members of the families effected that the city would do everything in its power to aid them.

The office force of the Nathaniel Tufts Meter Company on Atlantic avenue rendered great service by turning over their telephone switchboard to the officials. This office was used chiefly by newspaper men. This act was greatly appreciated as this office contained the only available telephones within reasonable distance.

Too much credit cannot be given the ambulance workers of the various hospitals. Clad in immaculate white uniforms upon their arriving they were soon a dark blue and very, very sticky. The interior of the ambulance were a "mess" following one trip to the hospitals.

WIFE TOOK TROUSERS, JUROR LATE FOR COURT

Worcester, Jan. 16.—Not until today did the judges presiding in Worcester Superior Court know why it was that James Fitzgerald was late for jury duty on several occasions. Fitzgerald is suing for his wife, Jennie M., for divorce. He testified as to wild antics of his better half, but claimed that the limit was reached when she took his trousers and left him "a la Adam" in the bathtub. He was summoned for jury duty then and didn't get to court until hours after the opening.

How the Empress of Russia was "picked up" in her gay girlhood by a German traveling man is told in "Secret Life of the Czarina," which begins serially in the Boston American on Monday, January 20.

Its main office is at No. 27 Williams street, New York. The local office is at East Cambridge, one of the largest distilleries in the country. The company was formerly known as the Great White Spirits Company, and then was merged into the Purity Distilling Company. This latter company was dissolved December 21, 1917. The land and buildings are assessed for $151,600, and the machinery for $77,000.

At the State Tax Commissioner's office it was learned that the Purity Distilling Company went out of existence on December 31, 1917.

New York, Jan. 16.—The body of Elizabeth Biddell, seventeen years old, the head crushed with a blunt instrument, was found today in a vacant lot near her Richmond Hill home. The body and the ground showed the girl had put up a desperate struggle before she was killed. She left her home last evening to go to a store and did not return. Twenty New York detectives have been assigned to the case.

ASKS $10,000 FOR NEW PUBLIC PARK

Augusta, Me., Jan. 16.—Representative Percival L. Baxter of Portland introduced in the House today an act appropriating $10,000 for each of the years 1919 and 1920 for the purpose of establishing a State park and forest reserve in the region of Mt. PREDICTS GENERATION OF GERMAN DWARFS

New York, Jan. 16.—The generation of Germans born before the war will be a generation of dwarfs because of the hardships and privations suffered, in the opinion of Mrs. Frank H. Cothren, a Red Cross worker, who has just returned to New York after five months' service in hospitals and German prison camps.

MME. LEBAUDY EXPECTS TO BE FREED TODAY

New York, Jan. 16.—Mme. Jacques Lebaudy probably will learn her fate before night. The Nassau County Grand Jury will resume its findings on the case of the woman who shot and killed the former "Emperor of the Sahara" in their Westbury (Long Island) home last Saturday evening.

A request for the abnormally small brain of Lebaudy has reached District Attorney Weeks from the medical department of Columbia University. Psychological circles of America are interested. The fact that Dr. Guy F. Hegbore, medical examiner for Nassau County, pronounced certain lobes to be more prominent than others led various medical colleges to ask for his brain.

Mme. Lebaudy today said to a friend:

"I am not strong enough to meet any representatives of the press. I am afraid they would misunderstand me and picture me as a woman of some sensational character.

EXPECT TO BE FREE.

"I am only a mother who has fought to protect her daughter, and as a mother, in these circumstances, I am ready to appear for trial if that is necessary. I will tell the truth, but I think I will be free by tomorrow night.

"At any rate, I know my daughter is now safe, and that is all that matters, no matter if the electric chair were necessary to make that fact a real fact."

Mme. Lebaudy is attended by a nurse. She is reported by her physician to be depressed and physically weak and nervous.

DAUGHTER NOW HAPPY.

Jacqueline, over whom the shooting is said to have occurred, was described by a close friend of the family as follows:

"She is actually happy. It is natural that she should be entering her real childhood now. All that is passed. Her mother is safe. The mother shot to save Jacqueline, but the daughter never knew the actual reason."

It is now said that Jacques Lebaudy was fifty-one years old. Previously it was reported he was forty-six years old.

Coroner Jones, who signed the death certificate, said the slain man was born in Italy, but that Lebaudy's father's name was Francois, not Jules. He said:

"Mme. Lebaudy was much younger than her husband. She is probably about twenty-eight years old, is still youthful and beautiful, fair of complexion and has no gray hair. She prefers to be called the purple."

DEDUCTIONS FROM BRAIN

In regard to the deductions from the examination of Lebaudy's brain, it was announced that he had an abnormally large head and a very small brain. Various lobes, especially the frontal lobes, were not developed, and the cerebellum was underdeveloped. The occipital part of the cerebrum is probably small and the Medulla, or "pyramids" were seemingly impaired, indicating motor irresponsibility.

The first accurate list of articles found in Lebaudy's body was announced last night by Coroner Jones. He described them as follows:

"One key, Number 301, Hotel Albert, and one baggage check. Twenty dollars in money, six dollars of which was currency, and four teen dollars in quarters and dimes, most of which were newly minted. A penknife, one cloth and two leather, several copies of letters, and a badly dirty-red calico revolver. An address of a Mineola chauffeur, written on wrapping paper, one pocket knife, two cans of condensed milk; six oranges. Several packages of paper clips and tags."

Mme. Lebaudy will be buried Monday in the Church of St. Brigid's, Church of Our Lady of Victory, and several services for Jacques Lebaudy.

Two boxes of mourning material have arrived at the Tombs, and it is said that the mother has agreed that Jacqueline should assume black in respect to her father's memory.

PROF. TALBOT DOUBTS IF MOLASSES EXPLODED

According to Henry Paul Talbot, Ph. D., professor of inorganic chemistry at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, present conditions of fermentation, if there was such, would be very far from the case to have occasioned what apparently seems to have been accomplished by the explosion. Fermentation of the molasses in the large tank would ferment very slowly and there is very little reason why it would conceivably blow the explosion could have been caused by gas resulting from fermentation.

Marlboro, Jan. 15.—Mrs. Annie Rock, wife of Frank Rock, and prominent in woman's circles in Marlboro, died today at her home, No. 49 West Main street. She was fifty-one years old, and had lived in Marlboro nearly all her life. Mrs Rock is survived by her husband, one son, Charles E. Rock of Marlboro, Harry of Boston, and Dr. John C. Rock of Lowell; two daughters, Mrs. E. V. Hickey of Wakefield and Miss Gertrude Rock of Cambridge, sister and two brothers, one of whom is City Clerk Peter B. Murphy.

BETHLEHEM STEEL CO. DENOUNCED BY TAFT

Washington, Jan. 16.—The Bethlehem Steel Company received a scathing denunciation from former President W. H. Taft, sitting as chairman of the National War Labor Board. The company is charged by employes in its Allentown, Pa., shell works, with seeking to avoid the enforcement of a war time award of the War Labor Board. "The situation is extremely painful to me," Mr. Taft said. "It makes me years for judicial power to enforce justice."

CABINET QUITS OFFICE IN ITALY

By International News Service.

Rome, Jan. 15.—The Italian cabinet resigned today. Premier Orlando has been commissioned to form a new ministry.

The downfall of the Orlando cabinet was brought about by dissensions over Italy's territorial claims. The first break came when Leonida Bissolati resigned as Minister of Public Assistance and Pensions early in January. Then came the threat of Francisco Nitti, Minister of the Italian Treasury, to resign, which resulted in the hurried return of Premier Orlando from Paris to Rome.

Bissolati is a member of the Socialist faction that, while favorable to the war, has been backing President Wilson's policy and opposing the policy of annexations outlined by Baron Sonnino, the Foreign Minister in the Orlando Cabinet.

Bissolati expressed himself as believing that it would be sharing a dangerous course if she were to insist upon the annexation of all of the Italia Irredenta in opposition to the Jugo-Slav claims.

Baron Sonnino has been insisting upon the enforcement of the treaty of London and the complete occupation of Dalmatia.

17 Super-Destroyer Ships in Great Britain's Navy

By International News Service.

London, Jan. 16.—Great Britain's navy now has 17 super-destroyers. Censorship restrictions forbade mention of the fact but all the ships have been designed and launched since war was declared.

The Mackay, recently launched, is capable of maintaining a speed of more than forty miles an hour and can keep at sea in any kind of weather. Her armament consists of heavy guns of a calibre heretofore found only on battleships. The Mackay's total armament consists of five guns of large calibre arranged on the centre line, augmented with anti-aircraft guns and triple torpedo tubes. She embodies the latest features of destroyers with some features of light cruisers and was built to lead flotillas of the destroyer type of craft.

SEEK NEW CLEW IN ROCKLAND TENDERLOIN

By PAUL HARRIS DRAKE.

Rockland, Me., Jan. 16.—Drug addicts were visited by the police in an effort to uncover a new clue in the murder of Mrs. Caroline Weil Brown, the identity of whose slayer, after fifteen days of unrelenting search, is today as great a mystery as on the morning of December 31 when the mutilated body was found.

Visits were paid to every notorious "dive" on the "Potter" Rockland's Tenderloin. Evidence in support of a certain theory resulted from the search.

Medical Examiner George L. Crockett of Thomaston, who conducted the coroner's inquest into Mrs. Brown's death, asserted that the four wounds on the head of the murdered victim "must have resulted from the hand of a person skilled in handling of woodsmen's tools."

The peculiar wounds which caused Mrs. Brown's death were found to bear ugly welts of the same length and pattern. Because of the similarity of the blows, the authorities are discarding former theories in favor of the belief that only a man skilled in some occupation requiring unerring accuracy in striking an object could have wielded the cartstake with such deadly effect.

State Detective Fred A. Tarbox, formerly chief of police in Pittsburg and Newton, Mass., left Rockland on the morning train for some purpose not divulged, but believed, nevertheless, to be important.

Widespread discussion resulted here following the arrest of Walter Hickman, porter at the Hotel Rockland, on a charge of wife beating.

So severe was the beating received by Mrs. Hickman that she was removed to the Knox Hospital. Suspicion of being in some way connected with the murder of Mrs. Brown had been directed against Hickman, who is colored, in the early days of the police investigation.

In the opinion of the authorities, however, Hickman, although having served a jail sentence for theft, is in no way connected with the big case, and he continues to occupy the centre of the stage.

An important contribution to what may prove to be a valuable bit of evidence is the possession of the Rockland police department, identification by Mrs. Sophia Paul of No. 868 Main street of a photograph as that of a man she saw walking from the scene of the murder on the morning when Mrs Brown's body was found.

who were recently discharged and who realize only too keenly the necessity for some such generous action on the part of the government until they obtain remunerative work and are ready once more to take the places they previously occupied in the community.

Nowhere did anyone refuse to sign the petition, and volunteer workers who are assisting in the circulation of this patriotic plea for justice for those who were willing to give up all for country, are springing up everywhere.

SEEK 100,000 SIGNATURES.

With the steady gain in popular favor of the movement to give some recognition to the magnificent work the men of the service the petition is expected to sweep on to the hundred thousand mark, and probably past it.

No petition launched in behalf of any body of men or any public improvement ever received such hearty and unanimous endorsement from the public.

All the various activities in behalf of soldiers, sailors and marines now under the title of the Soldiers' Friend are to be gathered together at headquarters to be established at No. 1 Beacon street, Room 922. It is expected that these headquarters will be thrown open today.

The Soldiers' Friend is prepared at all times to give advice and assistance to men of the army, navy and marine corps and through them to their families and dependents.

HAS HELPED HUNDREDS.

It has helped hundreds already. It has appeased the anxiety of parents and relatives of men in the service by locating these men with whom to unite, but it is now prepared to greatly broaden this work in order to be of the fullest possible service to service men and their relatives.

Every man in the service, or honorably discharged from the service, is invited to send in suggestions for the enlargement of the work done by the Soldiers' Friend. The limit of such work will be measured only by the demands upon it.

To protect the legal rights of service men, lawyers representing the legal bureau will give their services and advice free, going into court, if necessary.

Men will be aided to secure employment. The Soldiers' Friend has already established twenty-two agencies where advertisements will be accepted and printed free of charge for all men in the service or honorably discharged from it, who are seeking work.

The list of employers willing to hire returned soldiers may be availed of by service men who want work.

TO SECURE ALLOTMENTS.

The Soldiers' Friends will look into any delays in making allotments and will work to hurry the settlement of payments.

The rights of soldiers, sailors and marines accruing since entering the service will be safeguarded. Lawyers are ready to go into court in behalf of men, now in service or honorably discharged, to protect their rights.

Write to the Soldier Friend at the Boston American, No. 10 Bimmer street, for aid and advice along any of these lines indicated.

GIRLS! ACT NOW! HAIR COMING OUT MEANS DANDRUFF

"Danderine" will save your hair and double its beauty at once.

Try this! Your hair gets soft, wavy, abundant and glossy at once.

Save your hair! Beauty it is only a matter of time before dandruff destroys it completely. Surely, you don't want to have a head of heavy, beautiful hair, soft, lustrous, wavy, free from dandruff. It is easy and inexpensive to have pretty, clustering hair and lots of it. Just spend a few cents for a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes you will see and feel a new abundance, freshness, fluffiness and all unnatural, gloss and softness, and by no one will you escape find a trace of dandruff or falling hair, but your real beauty will be after about two weeks' use, when you will actually see new hair—fine, downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over your head. Then, indeed, you will have true beauty hair, possible only when dandruff is gone.—Advertisement.

PLAN TO MAKE GERMANY FEDERAL REPUBLIC

UNITED STATES TAKEN AS MODEL, SAYS DILLON

Dr. E. J. Dillon, one of the world's greatest journalists, will report the peace proceedings, upon which the eyes of the world are now centred, for New England readers exclusively through the columns of the Boston American. Dr. Dillon will write upon the preliminaries leading up to the main Peace Conference and upon the Versailles sessions.

By DR. E. J. DILLON.

Special Cable to the Boston American and Philadelphia Public Ledger.

(Copyright in the United States and Canada by the Philadelphia Ledger Company. Copyright in Europe by London Daily Telegraph.)

Paris, Jan. 16.—As yet the names of Britain's delegates have not been all announced, only three are officially known. As I conjectured, the Dominions will receive representatives on the same footing as Belgium and Serbia. The concentration, which in France is still busy sifting the true from the false, the expedient from the inopportune, will probably be maintained by some countries in the people's interests, which are presumably best understood by their governments, but the American and British authorities are for free discussion of current events.

DR. E. J. DILLON

As there is no language common to all the delegates the proposal has been made to admit both English and French as mediums of discussion. At Portsmouth, during the Russo-Japanese conference, the delegates adopted this course, and it fell to my lot to interpret the exact meaning of English terms to Count Witte.

The action of the delegates in this arduous work of peace making is to be circumscribed and guided by three main principles, on each of which they may lay greater or lesser stress as in their opinion the occasion demands. The first principle is nationality, the second the necessity of securing legitimate guarantees in the shape of strategic frontiers and economic opportunities, and lastly, the obligation of redeeming engagements entered into with certain governments respecting annexation by them of enemy territories with the object of inducing them to declare war against the central empires.

PROBLEM A GREAT ONE.

The problem confronting the conference is much larger than the liquidation of the war and the reconstruction of the political system. The war was but one episode of a vast revolution which after a long period of maturation has engulfed artificial human society, together with its groundworks and ramifications, and left the spirit of destruction moving upon the face of surviving landmarks.

Considerable sections of the peoples for whom, and perhaps, also, eventually through whom, a new order will ultimately be called into being, are beginning to be moved by ideas wholly alien to all traditional currents of European history. They openly display scorn of recognized checks, and contempt for hallowed institutions and for classes whose bankruptcy has culminated in a general clash.

In lieu of the spent moral forces and vanished faith, we discern rage, recklessness, boundless desires and insatiable passions. The centre of the seismic disturbance is Russia, where the ground on which the politico-social fabric stood was hollow and the periphery is fast extending as the circle becomes vaster.

Already Lithuania, Poland, Bohemia and Hungary are comprised in the anarchist area, and in certain other countries a repercussion of the violent shocks is being felt in greater or lesser degree unrecorded by press organs, and fears are entertained that these too may be suddenly sucked into the vortex.

The former German ambassador to London, Prince Lichnowsky, has published a specious plea for the retention of West Prussia and Upper Silesia, with its coal industry and agriculture, on the grounds that Germany must possess a defensible frontier, and cannot abandon a large section of countrymen to a new State nor brook the severance of East Prussia; that it would be impossible to maintain the economic balance of power if the Silesian manufacturing and agricultural industries would be ruined by the customs tariffs of a Polish State; that Poland will in any case be obliged to cultivate close commercial relations with Russia, and will therefore not need an outlet to the seat at Dantzig; that Germany possesses a good right to demand a plebiscite for Alsace-Lorraine as her adversaries for Polish territories; that President Wilson asseverated his resolve to crush not Germany, but militarism; that the Washington government is not prepared to return the Southern Spanish fields of the union to Mexico, had Germany lost the war against France, England and America, but against Poland and Bohemia, who are allied to her; that if the enumerated provinces be detached she will be unable to recuperate her economic forces or even pay compensation for damages, and that a peace which disintegrates Germany would no more be lasting than that of Tilsit or Brest.

CAMPAIGN IN GERMANY

It is unnecessary to answer these arguments because they already have been refuted, but it is worth pointing out that the retention by Germany of West Prussia, together with Dantzig and Thorn would involve the sacrifice of Poland with its 24,000,000 inhabitants, and frustrate the principal motive of the conference in reviving that state.

The campaign has begun in Germany for the elections to the Constituent Assembly, which will be intrusted with the elaboration of a new constitution, and the ratification of the peace treaty. The notion is current in some political circles abroad that the German revolution is but a deftly masked simulacrum of democracy, concealing monarchist designs and will not bear examination. The constitution will be wholly a new creation on the broadest democratic basis, and the principle of equality will be strictly applied, not only to individuals, but also to federated states.

In other words, Germany will be divided into twenty-four autonomous communities, each of which will number on average from two to three million inhabitants, but some may, for economic or political reasons, have more. The United States of America will serve as a model so far as German traditions and economic requirements allow. The system of two chambers, which seems less democratic than a single chamber, will be adopted.

TO HAVE A "SAATENHAUSE."

For the present Federal council, the framers of the new constitution will substitute a State House "Saatenhouse," to consist of about seventy members who will be delegated by the parliaments of the federated States and be entrusted with legislative functions, after the model of the United States Senate. One of the difficult problems to be solved is the area of the federated States, and the necessity of cutting up some larger States into smaller ones. This principle on which consensus of opinion apparently exists, will be all the more easily applied, since owing to historic evolution on one hand and Prussian militarism on the other hand, some existing States, although separate from each other, like the Saxon Grand Duchies and the principalities of Schwarzenburg and Reuss, which are known as the Thuringian States, belong to the same branch of the nation, while others, like Prussia, are amalgams of several. Prussia, therefore, must be disintegrated.

Votes in the State House will be so distributed that each million inhabitants represent about 1,000,000 voters. The President will take the place hitherto occupied by the Kaiser, but will be elected probably for four years. The election, however, will not be direct by the people, owing to the difficulties bound up with electioneering agitation, and with the voting of 65,000,000 citizens. One such difficulty would be the necessity in some cases of repeating elections until a candidate received an absolute majority. In order to obviate the danger of legislative chambers finding themselves in opposition to the President, He will be chosen by these two bodies voting conjointly, and on equal footing.

WORRIED OVER POLAND

Moreover it is probable the President and Parliament will be elected for the same term of four years. This arrangement, however, is hardly more than a probability. On the expiration of this term, new elections would be held for the peoples house. Would-be, which will answer to the House of Commons and also for the State House, and the first business of them would be to proceed to the election of a President. By this device, the President and the Legislative Chambers would be enabled to work in harmony.

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but is beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup at home. It is simple and cheap to make, but it really has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs, loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gratifully but surely the annoying throat tickle and resulting cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, bronchial croup, whooping cough or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its healing effect on the membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.—Advertisement.

U. S. MINE LAYER SINKS 17 U-BOATS

Shawmut Returns From War Zone With the Aroostook. Another Ship in Same Work

The U. S. S. Shawmut and the U. S. S. Aroostook, two of the new mine-layers, today came into Boston Harbor, fully armed, returning after six months in the North Sea. Both vessels will reconvoy before the coming Massachusetts and Boston Hill, under which they filed on their Eastern Steamship Line between Boston and New York before being taken over by the Navy Department.

On the pilot house of the Shawmut, which was formerly the Massachusetts, are scratched seven marks, each resembling in the shape of a periscope and underneath each of the ship's guns and afterwards raised.

Ensign W. Starbuck, signal officer, has a number of such relics, including plates from the hull of a German submarine. He says he was surprised at the quality of the fittings aboard the U-boat which he saw.

"I had heard a great deal about the shortage of metal in Germany," he said, "but from the fittings and machinery in the German submarines I am inclined to doubt the Kaiserless stories. The material was of the finest, and Ensign Starbuck has also part of a machine gun which was part of a U-boat.

Another relic is a 3-in shell taken by Ensign W. H. Gifford from U-boat 110 after it had been sunk.

The men of the Shawmut saw plenty of action in the six months they were acting as a unit in the North Sea. The U-boat commanders used every trick known to them to surprise the Americans and the officers thought of many inventions that the world would have never known.

American mines were used entirely and on one trip the Shawmut and her sister ships of mines sliced off 17 U. S. steamboat built by Lockard and electric chairs.

ACID STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Often Followed By Serious Gastric Ulcer, Say Authority. Most Frequent Cause of Stomach Sour Will Say: Keep Stomach Sweet With Magnesia.

Stomach trouble, directly indigestion, sourness, gas, heartburn, dyspepsia, nausea, etc., are caused nine times in ten by chronic "acid stomach," says a well known authority.

Among hydrochloric and pepsin in the stomach at an abnormally high degree of acidity, which is the cause of the trouble. This excessive acidity irritates the sensitive stomach lining and often leads to ulceration. Sufferers from acid stomach should not take drastic medicine, but should get a few ounces of plain magnesia (not the kind sold in drug stores) and take a teaspoonful in a little water after meals and at bedtime. This will neutralize the acid and prevent its formation, thus relieving the stomach from the irritation. Bisurated magnesia is harmless, and is said to be used by thousands of people who have found it a most effective remedy for acid stomach. It is also said to be the best treatment for gastritis, acid indigestion, heartburn, sour stomach, belching of gas, nausea after eating, etc. Even if your case is severe, you should obtain relief promptly by following this simple treatment: Take a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia (powder or tablet form) in a glass of water, sip slowly until dissolved, and drink while effervescing.

Mail Fraud Charged to Publisher of Matrimonial Ads

A Richard Lynch of Peabody street, Boston, matrimonial magazine publisher, who was arrested on charge of using the mail in scheme to defraud, pleaded not guilty before United States Commissioner Hayes. He was held in $500 bail for a hearing February 19.

The government alleges that Lynch, who claimed to be a newspaper promoter, had represented through advertisements, circulars and letters that he was publishing a monthly magazine in the interest of a matrimonial agency, which contained a supplement giving confidentially the names and addresses of marriageable men and women.

The publication which Lynch is said to have published, was called "Confidential," a copy of which is in evidence. The last issue of this publication contained more than the hundred names of Boston persons, several of these being from Brookline and outside residents of Massachusetts.

LIKED GERMANS, SO OFFICER IS DISMISSED

By International News Service.

Washington, Jan. 16.—Because he "pronounced sympathized the German people, particularly the German spies, and seemed to side with the Germans as against the United States, and said that the Kaiser was a gentleman," Captain Samuel H. Hodgson, Medical Corps, United States Army, has been dismissed from the service, the War Department announced today.

Witnesses testified that the officer made the following statements last summer at the officers' mess at Camp Custer, Mich., according to the announcement:

"All my friends in Mexico are German. I admire the work of the German spies. My dearest friend in Mexico was Carl Heinrich Jonas, Detroit, at Ogotlhorpe, Ga. He was too patriotic to keep quiet, so they interned him. I admire the patriotism of the German people. The reason I refuse to intern prisoners is probably because you do not know any Germans."

The following conversation passed between Hodgson and a civilian at the mess, Carl Heinrich Jonas, Detroit, Mich., it was charged:

"Let me go to Mexico and kill some Germans," the civilian is reported to have said to the officer, who answered:

"Why not go to the United States and kill some Americans?"

He also said that the moving picture, "The Kaiser—the Beast of Berlin," was overdrawn and that the Kaiser was a gentleman, according to the War Department.

Hodgson was sentenced by court-martial to dismissal from the service and two years at hard labor, but this was remitted by President Wilson to dismissal and a reprimand.

SUFFRAGE HONOR FOR FIRST WOMAN LAWYER

Mrs. Mahan served in this same capacity during 1914 and 1915, and is especially qualified to conduct the legislative campaign for the ratification of the federal suffrage amendment. Mrs. Mahan is the mother of Walter C. Mahan, a former Boston American man now with the American Expeditionary Force overseas.

23 FAMILIES ON RENT STRIKE IN NEW YORK

SAYS SCOURGE OF SPANISH INFLUENZA

May Leave Wrecked Health For Many of Our People.

Recommends Special Tonic to Overcome Ill Effects.

Medical authorities agree that the after effects of Spanish influenza and even the ordinary "grip" often leave the patient in a more or less impaired condition, with one or more of the vital organs, such as the lungs, heart, stomach, liver or kidneys.

Pneumonia, chronic bronchitis and tuberculosis find fertile soil in the weakened lungs.

Bright's disease, diabetes, apoplexy, cystitis, etc., often come on later to claim the convalescent patient.

Dyspepsia, sickness, nervousness, constipation and kindred ailments are known to be more prevalent after an epidemic of La Grippe. Liver and bowel disorders, too, are inclined to further delay the return of perfect health.

In fact, weeks and months may elapse before complete good health returns to the victims of this dread malady. It is the part of wisdom not to depend upon your physician's services too soon, for in time he will usually advise a good tonic upbuilding medicine that will aid in restoring vigorous digestion and full nutrition. Physicians and the public universally recognize the safe, sane, rejuvenating power that lies in the bitter herbs and barks, such as Calasaya bark, Palmetto root, Damiana, Nux Vomica and also in Iron Peptonate and Phosphide. These drugs represent the main constituents of three-grain Cadomite Tablets, and as the formula is printed on the label, any person should feel that there is no secret dope or nostrum, but a genuine, beneficial tonic, and such it has proven to thousands, both old and young. Elderly folks especially find permanent strength and improved vitality very quickly. Digestion improves, appetite returns, restful sleep follows, and soon a strong, vigorous body and a harmonious nervous system reward the convalescent. All good druggists supply Cadomite Tablets in sealed tubes with full directions. Show the package to your physician, who should at once recognize the noted formula of a specialist.—Advertisement.

"A teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin each night at bedtime has done me a world of good, as I am 62 years old and was getting badly constipated. I had previously taken a lot of salts and pills without real relief." (From a letter to Dr. Caldwell written by Mr. A. Forester, Princess Anne, Md.)

Constipation is one of the penalties of age that should never be neglected—Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin that relieves constipation in an easy, natural manner, without griping or strain, and is as positive in its effect as it is mild and gentle in its action.

Peggy Lawrence Defied Society, She Scorned the Conventions That No Woman Must Ignore, and Yet—

THERE CAME AN HOUR WHEN ALL THE WORLD PAID TRIBUTE TO HER; WHEN THE WIFE SHE HAD INJURED FORGAVE HER; WHEN SHE WAS HONORED FOR HER HEROISM AND FOR MAKING THE BIGGEST SACRIFICE OF ALL.

What a wonderful world this is, after all.

The daring telephone girl who sticks to her switchboard in a burning Minnesota village to save the people in the path of the flames becomes known overnight to the people of the nation.

The convict in a Texas prison who out of his dreams conjures up a fascinating population to people a world of his own becomes a celebrated literary figure, applauded in all lands, and his early errors are forgiven.

The fine, wonderful thing about the people of America is THEIR WILLINGNESS TO FORGET.

AMERICA IS the land of REDEMPTION—the land of FORGIVENESS.

Perhaps you don't really believe this.

How many thousands of men do you suppose there are in Boston and New England today — respected, prosperous, successful men—who would not be where they are now if society and their fellow-beings accusingly brought them to book for things they have been kind enough to forget?

How many thousands of women, happily married and surrounded by their families, would have never married and never had their happy families were they held strictly to account to face the accusing finger of society?

But there comes a time when a social earthquake overturns human structures, wipes out completely the things that men and women have done that they would wish society to forget and gives to all who have defied or scorned conventions or ignored laws their hour of restoration—their hour of redemption—an hour for reconstruction and human rehabilitation.

Such an hour came in the life of PEGGY LAWRENCE.

There are TEN THOUSAND PEGGY LAWRENCES IN BOSTON; ten thousand girls and young women no better and no worse than the Peggy Lawrence who redeemed herself and sent her name and fame encircling the world; ten thousand Peggys known to the Watch and Ward Society.

The REAL Peggy Lawrence is the heroine of a wonderful play.

In THE CROWDED HOUR, now playing at Selwyn's Park Square Theatre, she is A HUMAN SINNER who looked the world in the eye scornfully, seized upon and held as her own a man who left his wife and won the reproaches of his fellows. Against all odds and with her beauty and her power over the man who loved her she kept her sweetheart and laughed in the faces of those who sought to take him from her.

At the very moment of her greatest triumph, at the moment when she had whipped everyone who sought to break her victory, she had the ground swept from under her feet and lost her lover because of one of the greatest crimes in human history—a modern parallel that RESHAPED THE RELIGIOUS HISTORY OF THE ENTIRE WORLD.

Two great playwrights, Edgar Selwyn and Channing Pollock, have begun their remarkable play at this dramatic and tense point in the lives of a man and a woman; they have written around this situation A GREAT DRAMA OF HUMAN REDEMPTION—so great a story in its hold upon the emotions that in the cities where it has played audiences have discarded the customary methods of applause and approval and risen in their seats and cheered and wept.

They show you A GIRL CLIMBING BACK TO HER RIGHTFUL PLACE IN SOCIETY; a girl who had failed miserably, according to society's standards, performing a superb act of heroism that made men and women forget everything else she had done before. They show you one of the greatest acts of RENUNCIATION you have ever seen in the theatre, and they make you FORGIVE her for what she HAS been and LOVE her for what she IS.

HERS was the triumph of a supreme moment, and in that moment came a purging of her past and the finding of her SOUL.

Do you remember Sir Walter Scott's world-known poem, "OLD MORTALITY," in which there are these lines, lines of an age now gone that are made to live and throb again in your memory?

"Sound the clarion, fill the fyfe,
To all the sensual world proclaim
One Crowded Hour of Glorious Life
Is worth an age without a name."

This famous poem gives the name to the play of Peggy Lawrence—the girl who had her DAY and lost everything; the girl who had her HOUR and won the admiration of the world. "The Crowded Hour" is at Selwyn's Park Square Theatre. Don't fail to see it.

Finding a Job for a Soldier

ONE of the biggest problems that confronts America is that of getting the discharged soldier back to work.

In this problem the Boston Evening American is co-operating.

Through its Want Ad columns American soldiers, sailors and marines are offering their services as workers in civil life.

Perhaps a great newspaper can do more than any other agency toward happily locating the soldier and finding him a place where he can resume the career dislocated by war.

When The American opened its "Situations Wanted" columns without charge to the thousands of our returning boys, the response was immediate and gratifying.

If you have not looked over these columns, you have missed something. Men of all capacities and stations in life are offering their services.

One wishes a position as salesman in the grocery or delicatessen line.

Another with five years' experience in foreign exchange and banking desires a position with a bank, steamship company or large manufacturing concern.

Here is one who is a college graduate, with knowledge of advanced mathematics and chemistry.

Others are, an experienced stenographer and typewriter, a mechanical draughtsman, a newspaper man, a photographic operator, an electric switchboard operator, an electric repair man, an experienced salesman of underwear and infants' wear, a traveling salesman with experience in men's furnishings and clothing, etc.

We need hardly say that those who are in need of a good man for any work would show both patriotism and humanity if they would scan The American Want Ad columns, carefully note these young men who have served their country, and give preference to them in any job that may be open.

The honorably discharged soldier, sailor or marine can use American Want Ad columns without humiliation or embarrassment. He is placing his case before the public in an open and honorable way.

And those who have positions to be filled will undoubtedly appreciate the fact that through The American they will be able to locate the man they want.

It should not be forgotten that the honorably discharged soldier from the American army is a picked man, a hundredfold man, and has had training in discipline and efficiency in THE GREATEST SCHOOL IN THE WORLD, THE UNITED STATES ARMY AND NAVY.

Relieved His RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely relieved me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find complete relief without operation, if you write to me, Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, 149 E. Medrellis Avenue, Manasquan, N. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

BROOKLINE HIGH DANCERS UNDER EXPERT'S EYE

Mrs. Lucille Perry Hall and Langdon Mathews demonstrating the proper position for dancing. Mrs. Hall warns against the extravagant motions of the jazz.

By HAZEL CANNING.

"Dancing is on the edge of going back to foolishness. And New York is responsible."

Mrs. Lucille Perry Hall, who has been asked by a committee of Brookline mothers to judge the dancing of Brookline High School pupils this next Saturday night, as to its propriety and fitness for well-brought-up young folks to perform, sounded a warning and an exhortation on the dancing situation.

"Nice people are careful how they jazz in public," was the first pronouncement of Mrs. Hall.

"Jazz dances, the 'Shimmie,' the 'Aeroplane Sway,' the 'Camouflage Turn,' the 'Military Jump,' and all the other absurdities, should never be indulged in save in one's own home, or a friend's. The very first ideal of the dancer is to dance in such a manner, everywhere, that dancing may never be misunderstood. In other words, let the dancer suit more of the spirit, more brains, more common sense, more ideals with his dancing, and less jazz—far, far less jazz."

HAVE NO EVIL IN MIND.

It was at the Mary Ware Laughton School of English Expression, where Mrs. Hall is a teacher of dramatic classic and folk dancing, that she explained the principles upon which she will judge the dancing of Brookline High School pupils, in that town, Saturday night. But first of all she said a word anent public exhibitions of dancing.

"In most cases," said Mrs. Hall, "these young people dance in this foolish, questionable way with no evil in their minds. I am convinced of this. Jazzing is the exhilaration of the dance gone mad. Jazzing really had its origin in the heathen dances of dusky savages on India's coral strand, or some place equally different from nicely chaperoned, proper Boston. These earliest originators of the jazz trembled; later, in their racial evolutions, in 'getting religion,' they also trembled, with pure sincerity and fervor. But these extravagant motions should be left to New York and the savages, unless indulged in at home, among friends, who know and do not misjudge."

"I sometimes wish the gallantry and the courteous grace of old minuet days would return, yet, of course, if we wish to be philosophical, we must agree that the slam-bang bustle of the one step, with its jolly swing, is typically American. And none of us would be anything else these days.

MODERN DANCING A DELIGHT.

"The confidence of the public has been won to modern dancing. Modern dancing has become a delight to execute, delightful to watch, a graceful and joyous swing, that does not fag the brain with intricate steps. At last it has standardized itself, just as we predicted it would. But now comes thoughtless dancing, in public places, misinterpreted, misunderstood. Abandon follows, unless we exert ourselves to keep our dances as they should be. An education to the little high school girl who slips into a classic gown, and dances an hour between school and study time, a relaxation to the tired business man, who wants to dance, but refuses to appear ridiculous or nauseous. We, in short, who love the dance must hand together to guard it jealously from New York improprieties, from ignorant abuse."

Which suggested a question mentioned, fateful, fraught with the high or low destiny of the dance; a delicate question; forthrightly asked.

"Then—ah—um—Mrs. Hall, you would not yourself teach the 'Camouflaged Turn,' the 'Shimmie,' the 'Military Jump, or Jazzes. You would not teach them—no, never?"

The lady to the contradiction. "I would teach them," said she, "privately, in my studio, but I would teach them in the right spirit, and only in that spirit." Spoken with conviction.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody will Know.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.—Advertisement.

Zucker was found guilty. He will be sentenced Monday.

ANIMAL CASUALTIES IN FRANCE TOTAL 42,311

Washington, Jan. 16.—The War Department announces that the animal casualties overseas had reached a total of 42,311 on Christmas Day, at which time the total American animal army in France was 191,431.

It was stated that no arrangement had been made for transferring the stock on hand to foreign governments, but that this might be considered later, as the army had enough horses and mules in this country to meet all requirements.

Swift & Company's 1918 Earnings

How They Affected You

During the twelve months ended Nov. 2, 1918 (its fiscal year), Swift & Company transacted the largest volume of business on the smallest margin of profit in its history.

Profits of the meat business—under regulations of the United States Food Administration—were limited to a maximum of 9 per cent on capital employed but not to exceed 2½ cents per dollar of sales.

Swift & Company in the regulated departments earned 7.57 per cent on capital employed and 2.04 cents per dollar of sales, out of which had to be paid interest on borrowed money and taxes. Here is how these earnings affect you.

Live-Stock Raiser—

Swift & Company killed 14,948,000 head of livestock, which weighed alive, 4,971,500,000 pounds.

Swift & Company made a profit of only a fraction of a cent per pound liveweight.

Consumer—

The sales of our meat departments were 4,012,579,000 pounds on which our earnings were less than ½ cent per pound.

The per capita consumption of meat in the United States is given as 170 pounds. If a consumer purchased only Swift & Company's products, he would contribute only about 78 cents a year, or 1½ cents a week as profit to the company.

SELWYN WRITING PLAY FOR CHARLEY CHAPLIN

While on a brief visit to this city for the purpose of witnessing the Boston premiere of his latest success, "The Crowded Hour," at the Park Square Theatre, Edgar Selwyn prominent playwright and co-author with Channing Pollock of the above-named play, announced that he is at work on a new play that will serve as a vehicle for Charlie Chaplin, the world-famous comedian.

Mr. Selwyn further stated that the play will be made in collaboration with the inimitable comedian and that Chaplin, in all probability, would return to the spoken stage immediately upon the completion of three new film productions, terminating his present contract. It is predicted that Chaplin will return to the legitimate stage early next season.

EX-SOLDIER ACQUITTED OF BURGLARY CHARGES

Roy H. Swanson, the young ex-soldier arrested at the Winslow home in Watertown last Saturday, was discharged by Judge Abbott in Waltham court today. The court held that young Swanson was not at the place for robbery and might have mistaken the house for his own a short distance away. Swanson was mustered out at Camp Devens Friday, and early Saturday was seen at the window of the Winslow home at 281 Waverly street by fifteen-year-old Joseph Winslow, who fired at and wounded the soldier. Swanson got away and was later found partially dressed in his own room, 361 Orchard street. His wound was not serious. He pleaded not guilty

MARIE CARROLL WEARS LACE PAJAMAS

"The Kiss Burglar" Star Declares She Does Not Care What Critics Say

If the lady who giggled at Marie Carroll's black lace pajamas at the performance of "The Kiss Burglar" last night will communicate with the young actress, she will receive a parcel of poisoned candy without charge.

Miss Carroll never wore black lace pajamas before, and she wished the public to understand that the pink glowing stuff which showed through the holes in the lace was not skin, but pink satin.

"I didn't mind what the critics said about me," said Miss Carroll. "They were mostly nice, save one old bear, who didn't like some of the things I do. He told me what I lacked and I was much obliged to him, and now I am trying to get those missing qualities."

"You play a princess, or something, in 'The Kiss Burglar,' don't you?" the writer demanded.

"Higher than that. A duchess. I never saw a Duchess and I never was exactly chummy with a princess, but my idea is that they are like other people when they are not wearing their crowns.

"You know the Grand Duchess of Luxemburg was the original of the part I am playing. I was so much interested in seeing how she won and lost her little kingdom within a day or so. I think she was so intelligent in taking the republic the way she did. Don't you?"

"You were out in 'Oh Boy' last year, weren't you?"

"Yes, and I played in Boston a week although nobody seems to know it. The girl who was playing the part here was sick and I was sent over from the New York cast to take her place. I liked Boston very much and wished I could have stayed out the run here."

Mr. J. J. Flood has been in the employ of the Elevated Railroad for twenty odd years and is well and favorably known. I began using the Quinol-Chemic Prescription and their marvellous achievements in the successful treatment of those who suffer from ear trouble that I took advantage of their offer to treat me free and find, after using only one dose as a sidehorn one, but it finally yielded to the Quinol-Chemic treatment and the discharge stopped."

"There can be no beautiful, healthy, rosy-cheeked, steady nerved women without iron. When the iron goes from the blood of women, the roses from their cheeks—their charm and attractiveness depart. Like a vase that empty patients take organic iron—Nuxated Iron—for nothing else but iron which often corrodes the stomach and does more harm than good. Nuxated Iron is easily assimilated, does not blacken nor injure the teeth nor upset the stomach. It will increase the strength and endurance of weak, nervous, irritable, careworn, haggard women in two weeks' time in many cases. I have used it in my own practice with most surprising results." Ferdinand King, M.D., well known New York Physician and medical author. (Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.—On sale at all good druggists.)

PIMPLES ON FACE CUTICURA HEALS

Formed Blackheads, Scaled Over, Burned and Itched.

"I had pimples on my face and they afterwards took the form of blackheads. The pimples were hard, large and red, and they scaled over. They were in blotches and burned when I perspired, and they also itched. They caused disfigurement.

"This trouble lasted about one year before I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. In three weeks I got relief, and three cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment healed me." (Signed) Jos. Jurvitch. 14 Beatty St., New Britain, Conn., Aug. 14, 1918.

The Cuticura Toilet Trio, consisting of Soap, Ointment and Talcum, promotes skin purity, comfort and health when used for every day toilet purposes. Sold throughout the world. Cocoanut Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Pure, unrefined cocoanut oil (which is free and entirely greaseless), is much better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as it will not possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get cocoanut cocoanut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last every one in the family for months.—Advertisement.

'BETTY BUTTONS' CHIDES SLACK SOLDIERS

Woe to Man in Army of Occupation Who Has Missing or Loose Button

By BERT FORD.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

With the American Army of Occupation in Germany, Jan. 15 (by courier to Nancy)—Miss Helen Bessler of Plainfield, N. J., daughter of W. G. Bessler, president of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, who is attached to the entertainment branch of the Y. M. C. A., has won high praise from commanding officers, not alone for her work on the stage, but as a help in keeping up the soldierly appearance of the men with whom she has become in contact.

Miss Bessler is known among officers and doughboys of the army of occupation as "Betty Buttons." The Yankees say that she has the eyes of a hawk in spotting a missing or loose button on a uniform, and when she is detected the guilty man is sure to come in for a lecture on soldierly appearances. When the Prince of Wales attended the dance at the Officers' Club in Coblenz, Miss Bessler danced with him four times.

"Do you know," she exclaimed afterwards, "I had a hard time in restraining myself from picking at the buttons on the Prince's uniform to see that all were tightly sewed on."

Miss Bessler's appraisal of the heir to the British throne was that "he was a good fellow and a real prince."

Miss Besler and her stage partner, Miss Viola Mayer of New York, have been singing at all sorts of soldier entertainments both before and after the armistice was signed.

Miss Mayer was the surprise of her life recently when she accidentally met her brother, Frank, a sergeant in the 315th Motor Truck Company, whom she had not seen since she came to Europe. Major Bogeman Bulger of New York, well-known sporting writer, and commanding officer of the American Field Press Section, has received the following letter of commendation from General Pershing:

"It is with keen appreciation of your work of the past year that I can assure you and those under you will meet the obligations of the year to come in the same spirit of determination and cooperation that has made our success possible."

Captain Gerald Morgan, chief censor, and Lieutenant Arthur J. Delany received similar greetings.

FRELINGHUYSEN IS AGAINST WORLD LEAGUE

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 16.—Senator Frelinghuysen of New Jersey is opposed to President Wilson's plan for a League of Nations on the ground that it "tends to compel the United States government, upon demand, to send an army to put down a revolution in the valleys of Africa, China or elsewhere, in spite of the fact that this country is prohibited by our Constitution from going to war except by solemn agreement of Congress."

HAYS CALLED "CAT'S PAW" OF SUFFRAGISTS

New York, Jan. 16.—Will H. At the annual meeting here, Mr. Hays was severely criticised for appointing Mrs. McCormick of Illinois as chairman of a "woman's committee."

TWO LOST, ONE DYING IN SOUTH END FIRE

James Murphy, thirty-six, and Edward Munroe, forty-eight, were killed, and John Gagan, fifty-three, is dying at the City Hospital as a result of being trapped in their rooms on the top floor of the four-story brick dwelling at No. 15 Oak street, South End, by flames and smoke that choked the hallways and stairs.

The men were found unconscious in their rooms by firemen and rushed to the City Hospital. It is believed that Gagan will die.

Mrs. Della Lee, landlady of the lodging house, leaped from the second floor to the street when she awoke to find her escape by the stairs cut off by smoke and flame. She was uninjured.

Several lodgers leaped to the street from windows, and four men were taken down over ladders and carried to nearby houses, where they were treated.

A dozen or so roomers were thrown into a panic when they were awakened by the cries of fire by Mrs. Lee. They attempted to flee by way of the stairway, but were forced back to their rooms by the flames.

The fire started in the basement of the rear of the building and worked its way to the roof.

Damage is estimated at $2,000 by the police and the cause was not ascertained.

Abandoned Airship Is Sighted Going Overseas

An empty dirigible with a broken engine is sailing southeast across the Atlantic Ocean, thousands of feet above the sea. The dirigible has been sighted 150 miles southeast of the Graves, according to information reaching the First Naval District officers here, and the pounding of the defective engine was easily heard aboard fishing vessels.

The dirigible was abandoned near the Orange Bluffs on Cape Cod by four aviators on Tuesday, after it had become unmanageable. The men were obliged to jump from the unwieldy airship just as it was turning toward the sea.

MANN BLOCKED PACKER PROBE, SAYS HENEY

By International News Service.

Washington, Jan. 16.—Further linking the name of James R. Mann, Republican floor leader of the House, with the packing interests of the country, Francis J. Heney, special government investigator, today declared that Mann blocked an investigation of the packers early in 1917.

"When Mr. Mann said that his amendment to the agricultural bill proposing that the packers' investigation be placed in the hands of the Bureau of Markets he spoke an untruth when he said the packers knew nothing of his amendment," Heney asserted.

"I shall produce letters," he continued, "taken from the private files of meat packers, showing that the packers had conferred with Mr. Mann prior to his amendment, and that these conferences related to an effort to sidetrack the Borland resolution, which would have insured the investigations in the hands of the Federal Trade Commission."

Wounded Heroes Thank Mayor for Appointing Mr. Hearst

VETERANS GLAD PUBLISHER WILL WELCOME MEN HOME

Thousands of Warriors and Their Kin in Memorial to Hylan Express Pleasure at Appointment of Mr. Hearst on Committee of Welcome to Homecoming Troops and Praise His Devotion to Their Welfare and Cause.

New York, Jan. 16.—Mayor John F. Hylan has received a memorial commending him for appointing William Randolph Hearst chairman of the Military Committee to Welcome Homecoming Troops. The memorial, a bulky volume nearly two inches thick, bore more than 6,000 signatures.

The signers were, in a majority of cases, soldiers who were wounded on the battlefields of France. Many of the signers were relatives of boys who went across the sea to fight for liberty and who lost their lives.

There also were a large number of signers who fought in the war with Spain and there also are many names on the memorial of men who are members of the Grand Army of the Republic.

The memorial was presented to Mayor Hylan in the reception room in City Hall by a committee appointed to represent the signers. They were Past Commander John J. Morris, Rice Post No. 29, G. A. R.; William C. Snyder, Department Patriotic Instructor, United Spanish War Veterans, N. Y. State; Lieutenant James J. Garry, Co. E, 23d Infantry, 2d Division, and Corporal William J. Kissane, 330th G. & F. Co., Camp Mills, L. I.

The memorial follows:

"NEW YORK, Jan. 13, 1919.

"Hon. John F. Hylan, Mayor of the city of New York:

"Dear Mr. Mayor—We, the undersigned, desire to express to you our appreciation of your appointment of William Randolph Hearst as a member of the Mayor's Committee of Welcome to Homecoming Troops and head of the Military Committee, having in its charge important details of the duty of welcoming home our men from across the sea.

"We believe Mr. Hearst's appointment is a proper recognition of his interest in the welfare of our soldiers, sailors and marines, and that our heroes have no greater champion, no more sincere and patriotic friend than Mr. Hearst.

"Our brave men put forth their great efforts and risked their lives that true democracy might live, not only political democracy, but, in a larger sense, a democracy of equal economic and industrial opportunity.

"Mr. Hearst has fought the fight against intrenched privilege in this country, and it is fitting and proper that a conspicuous defender of the rights of the people should be a conspicuous member of the committee which greets the people's soldiers.

"The appointment of Mr. Hearst is taken advantage of, not so much to criticize you, as to afford occasion and opportunity for the advocates and beneficiaries of special privilege to attack a man who has been unswerving in his devotion to the cause and the liberties of the exploited public.

"Accept this memorial on behalf of the public, from whose ranks the soldiers, sailors and marines are drawn. Let it be added to. It is the answer to unfair and selfish criticism, the expression of the real patriotic sentiments of the people of the City of New York.

"Very respectfully yours."

THE COMMITTEE.

"Past Commander John J. Morris, Rice Post, No. 29, G. A. R.

"William C. Snyder, Department Patriotic Instructor, United Spanish War Veterans, New York State.

"Lieutenant James J. Garry, No. 432 West 47th street, Co. E, 23d Inf., 2d Division.

"Corporal William J. Kissane, No. 436 West 42d street, 330th G. & F. Co., Camp Mills, L. I."

Mayor Hylan Proud of Memorial Hailing Choice of Mr. Hearst

City Executive Glad to Meet Heroes, He Says, Who Bear No Personal Grudge.

The Mayor addressed the committee as follows:

"I am delighted to greet you gentlemen today and to receive from you this memorial commending me for the appointment of Mr. Hearst on the Mayor's Committee of Welcome to Homecoming Troops.

"I notice your memorial is signed by many thousands of veterans of the Civil War, Spanish-American War and the present war, also the mothers and fathers of many of the soldiers, sailors and marines who fought in the present war.

"The signers of this memorial are the ones that are best fitted to speak for the fighting forces of our country. You men have no personal grudge, but simply the sincere desire to see that our returning brave and courageous soldiers, sailors and marines are properly received.

"May I not say to you that it is my endeavor and the endeavor of the Mayor's Committee of Welcome to Homecoming Troops to see that the most cordial and sincere reception is given to the men of this city and State who were willing to make the supreme sacrifice so that citizens like yourselves might have a voice in the government.

"If you will notice in the list of those men who are attempting to form a so-called citizens' committee there are many loud-mouthed patriots who do much talking but take no chances with their personal safety.

"In the selection of the personnel of the Mayor's Committee of Welcome to Homecoming Troops, I directed that all classes of citizens be given representation thereon. I desired that this committee should represent that of the people of this city.

"I was misled into the belief that every class of citizenship which composes our great city would be willing to cast aside personal differences and all unite in a proper and deserving welcome to our returning soldiers, sailors and marines.

"It is unfortunate that it should be recorded that there are some gentlemen in our community who can never place civic or patriotic duty above their personal desires. I am glad that this occasion has arisen and that they have come forth so that the people of this city will be able to know who are and who are not true and loyal citizens of this metropolis.

"I am glad to welcome you here and wish to congratulate you upon your straightforwardness and the patriotic motive and civic duty that brought you here as a committee, representing, as you do, a body of citizens from whom I am always glad to hear, and always glad to greet."

WOMEN SIGN MEMORIAL TO MAYOR HYLAN

Wounded Hero Is One of the Committee.

The youngest member of the committee that called on Mayor Hylan to present a memorial commending him for appointing William Randolph Hearst a member of the Committee to Welcome Homecoming Troops was Lieutenant James J. Garry, of Company E, 23rd Infantry, 2nd Division. He is twenty-six years old and lives at No. 422 West Forty-seventh street.

Lieutenant Garry, who left Camp Upton as a sergeant with the 77th Division of April 4, fell of the drive in the Champagne front on October 2, when the boys went "over the top" four lines in as many days. He managed to the left of him lost his arms, and his comrade to the right made a tourniquet for private Hoffman, not until the sixth day, however, that the lieutenant was carried in both shoulders exploded.

He was also in the St. Mihiel drive of September 12, and was under fire 5 days, but was among the fortunate ones, as there were but few casualties.

Lieutenant Garry's friends are proud of his service and the red and 53rd Pioneer Infantry, A. E. F.), Joseph Rosoff (honorably discharged private), F. A. Zeller, yeoman 3rd U. S. N. R. F., also two brothers in service.

This Day in History

THIS is the anniversary of the renunciation of allegiance to the English crown by Charles I. in 1648. On January 30 of the following year he was publicly beheaded in Whitehall where he was condemned as a traitor by sixty-seven of the 135 judges. All pleas went unheeded, and he went to his death with dignity.

Security Prices Improve During Midday

MARINES HIGH IN THE STOCK MARKET

Shipping Issues Advance in Price During the Noon Period

By W. H. ROSS.
Financial Editor.

Stocks had not started to move early in the afternoon at New York but the improvement was so pronounced as regards the list as a whole that there seemed little room for doubt that the bottom had been reached. Marines were stressed although Atlantic Gulf, Central, Baltimore and Ohio, Southern Pacific and Union Pacific showed fractional gains into a more irregular with Texas Company week and Reading relatively inactive. Materials Petroleum issues, shoddiers and the day's strength among Motors, Coppers and Equipments, and was showing to quite full advance before the session was half over. Sales mounted rapidly to 500,000 shares by the end of the first hour, or at the rate of 1,000,000 shares for the day.

In Boston, Massachusetts Electric preferred continued to be the most active stock. It had sold down to 15 during the morning but by afternoon had recovered to 17, and the final market was strong and very quiet.

Stocks were irregular in New York all midday. Oil, railroad and shipping issues were the weakest groups. The last named reflected the action of the United States of the prohibition amendment. A number of industrials held part of their gains, but the list ruled below the highest morning prices. The market became quiet on the decline steel issues were strong as a class.

PRICES MIXED AT OPENING.

While the price movement in New York was mixed at the opening the undertone was strong and sentiment appeared to be bullish in most trading quarters. There was more demand for the specialist war stocks. The largest early gains were made by United Cigar Stores, which sold as high as 118½, in the first hour. Alax Rubber, which touched 50, and Central Hide and Leather, which rose to 89¾, and Crucible steel, which sold as high as 85¾. U. S. Steel, at its first-hour highest, sold at 102¾, or a fraction. There were some weak issues, however. International Nickel declined two points to 26, Studebaker three points to 49, and after a fractional gain Marine preferred receded to 102½. There was a reaction in the second hour, due to realization sales, which affected some issues. Utah Copper Co. receded more than a point from its highest and Mexican Petroleum more than two. Industrial shares as a group during the forenoon, with Southern Pacific and Union Pacific were more than a point below yesterday's closing figures. Oil issues were heavy. Reading and weakened also. Coppers were quiet and showed little price range. The market was fairly active during the morning.

BOSTON TRADING WAS DULL.

In Boston the market continued quiet and there was nothing unusual about trading here. Massachusetts Electric preferred was the most active issue, opening unchanged, receding a point and recovering half of the loss before 12 o'clock. Hanover Trust Co. was a weak issue, declining a point in the second hour. Boston Elevated receded fractionally on a few sales. Little business was done in coppers. United Fruit advanced a point on its first sale and West End receded a point on a small transaction.

PUBLIC NOT SPECULATING.

Trading is confined, it would seem, to the professional element in the main. The public is disinclined to operate in stocks while many vital matters pending in international and domestic affairs. Market conditions point to a large short interest. Habitual speculators are said to be buying on the dips, while big financial and business interests are represented as taking a very hopeful view of the future. Stocks are said to be long of stocks. So far as can be learned, the trade fellows are more worried over the trade outlook than the big men. The recent strength of certain industrial specialties gives hope that there are prosperous times ahead.

FINANCIAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

It is stated that call loans made on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday amounted to more than $35,000,000.

Important developments in the rubber trade may follow the annual meetings of rubber companies to be held in New York today.

Bargain hunters are said to be watching the stock market very closely just now and investment buying on a considerable scale is believed to be not far off.

Regarding the allotment of a high record price for United Drug Co. common, a local financial publication says it is the result of the company's increase in gross business to $51,000,000 last year and the tendency in the use of the directors to permit common stockholders to buy stock at par with surplus amount in addition to any preferred dividends.

From the statistical point New Haven and Baltimore & Ohio issues are not more interesting than unimportant, so extensive that common interest is offering itself for $200 a day.

For the month of November, 1918, the Manhattan Steel Company reports net earnings of $1,000,000, or preferred dividend requirements, equal to $7.69 a year on the common stock.

American Z. Pb. Lead and Smelting Co.

The directors of the American Zinc, Lead & Smelting Company declared a special dividend of 50 cents per share, payable February 1, 1919, to stockholders of record January 21, 1919.

FOREIGN TRADE CHANGED BY WAR

Bank Statistics Show Great Increase in Value of U. S. Exports

The war wrought great changes in the foreign trade of the United States and among the alterations due to that great struggle was a decrease in the importation of finished manufactures, but an increase in the value of food and manufacturing material brought to American shores. In regard to exports there was an increase in the quantity of food and finished manufactures, but a reduction in shipments of raw material, although Europe was stripped of many of the things of which millions long before this country entered the war.

Imports of manufactured goods for the calendar year 1918, according to a compilation by the National City Bank of New York, compared with those of 1913, totalled less in value, despite the fact that the quantity in the aggregate for the twelve months of 1918 was greater than the period of 1913, while the value of raw material as well as foodstuffs imported in 1918 was double that of 1913.

The value of finished manufactures exported in 1918 is nearly three times as great as in 1913; foodstuffs more than three times as great in value, while raw materials exported shows but a trifling increase in value, but a marked decrease in quantity.

VALUE OF MANUFACTURERS.

Manufacturers exported in condition ready for use in 1918 are in round terms $2,100,000,000 against $750,000,000 in 1913; manufactures for further use in manufacture $1,100,000,000 against slightly less than $400,000,000 in 1913; foodstuffs approximately $1,000,000,000 against $300,000,000 in 1913; while raw material for manufacture is put about $300,000,000 in 1918 against $726,000,000 in 1913, despite the fact that raw cotton, the principal article of raw material sent out of the country, showed an average export price in 1918 of about thirty-one cents per pound against twelve cents per pound in the year immediately preceding the war. In fact the quantity of cotton exported in 1918 was only about 2,000,000 pounds against 4,182,000 in 1913.

EXPORTS OF FOODSTUFFS.

The value of finished manufactures exported shows an enormous increase, being for the calendar year 1918 in round terms $6,000,000,000 of finished manufactures against $2,450,000,000 in 1913. While this great increase occurs in part in raw material, it is not by any means confined to this class of merchandise for the value of iron and steel manufactures exported in 1918 shows a total of over $1,000,000,000 against $270,000,000 in 1913, and comparatively little of the increase is found in agricultural implements for countries of Europe.

The value of foodstuffs exported during the year 1918 is in round terms $2,000,000,000 against $450,000,000 in 1913, being more than four times as much in value in 1918 as in the year preceding the war. Of the total of the increase in foodstuffs value is due to higher prices there is a marked increase in quantity, especially in meats. The fresh beef exported in 1918 shows a total of 600,000,000 pounds in 1918 against less than 2,000,000 pounds in 1913.

WESTINGHOUSE EARNS MORE THAN $6 A SHARE

For the eight months which ended with November last the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company earned $6.30 a share for its $21,812,800 stock, as against the current dividend rate of $3.50. This is after all charges, including a reserve of $8,000,000 for excess Federal taxes, and compared with $10.25 a share earned in the full year to March 31, 1918.

On April 1, 1918, Westinghouse had nothing orders totaling $147,857,886, of which $110,185,007 were for regular products and $37,672,879 represented war work. On January 1, 1919, the figures were $95,000,000 regular products and $5,000,000 munitions, or reductions of $15,000,000 and $32,000,000, respectively, from the totals at the beginning of the fiscal year.

For the year to March 27, 1918, Westinghouse boosted its gross sales to $97,728,197, the highest in the history of the company.

Earnings for full year Westinghouse is likely to show not for the stock at approximately the eight months' rate of about $9.45 a share.

Increased Oil Output

Within six weeks nearly 400,000 barrels a day have been added to the available oil production of the Gulf coast fields in Mexico. The latest big production well is owned by the Mexican Gulf Oil Company, and is Ampa, and is known as Chihuampa No. 3. According to the company's report it flowed on its initial shoot was at the rate of 60,000 barrels a day.

Elect New Directors

Directors of the South Boston Trust Company at their annual meeting elected Anthony F. Hosmer and Charles Van Stone to fill vacancies in the directorate.

Armour Company's Earnings

Gross sales of Armour & Co. for the fiscal year ended November 2, 1918, were $367,000,000, the largest in the company's history. Gross increased $280,000,000 over 1917. After excess profits taxes, the net profit was $15,247,837, a decrease of $6,045,727 and $8,452,163 from 1916. After deducting dividends on the preferred stock the balance available for the $100,000,000 outstanding common stock was equal to $14.70 a share as compared with $20.80 a share for preceding twelve months and $20.10 in 1916.

Out of respect to the memory of Mrs. Harry Dutton, wife of our President, this store will be closed during the funeral service, from two to three o'clock, Friday, January seventeenth.

A.F. OF L. DEMAND FOR FEDERAL CONTROL

Federation's Reconstruction Plan Is Presented to Senate Committee

By JOHN TURPLE GRAVES,
Editorial Representative of the New York American in Washington.

Washington, Jan. 16.—Labor seeks grave with agriculture and the Hearst newspapers in the demand for government ownership, railroads and other public utilities.

If labor is not to fall footed and emphatic in its demand as agriculture apparently has been, it is for strategic and personal reasons which will disappear in time to give the full force of the labor pronouncement to the government ownership plea.

Labor's deep grudge against Postmaster-General Burleson over the telegraph and telephone matter and Burleson's attitude of opposition to the right to organize is the explanation of what sounds indefinite in the reconstruction program which the American Federation of Labor submitted to the Senate Committee on Labor and Education.

RIGHT TO ORGANIZE.

Whereas on last Tuesday the National Convention of Farmers in Washington promulgated a positive definite and flat-footed demand for the government ownership of railroads and all public utilities, immediately or "soon as some ten millions of water could be squeezed out of the railroad properties," the Federation expressed itself more moderately, leaving an alternative of evasion if necessary.

Labor begins with the matter nearest its heart in the right to organize. Its report, approved by the executive council, includes there propositions:

1—Making it a criminal offence for any employer to interfere with or hamper the right of workers to organize into trade unions or to interfere with legitimate activities of trade unions.

2—Putting an immediate end to the exploitation of children under sixteen years of age.

3—Steps must be taken to provide that in the event of a Supreme Court decision declaring a law unconstitutional, either of Congress or of a State, if the people acting either directly or through Congress or a State Legislature should reenact the measure, it shall then become the law without being subject to annulment by any court.

FOR GOVERNMENT CONTROL

4—Public and semi-public utilities should be owned or operated and regulated by the Government in the interest of the public.

5—A graduated tax of all unable agricultural lands above the acreage actually cultivated by its owner, so as to prevent private ownership of very large tracts of unable land and to prevent as far as possible the extension of the present claim.

6—Limiting, defining and regulating the powers, privileges and activities of corporations so that their methods cannot become detrimental to the American people. All corporations organized for profit should be subject to Federal license.

7—Amending Workmen's Compensation laws so as to make them more adequate. State insurance must supplant employers' liability insurance operated for profit.

8—Prohibiting immigration into the United States for a period of two years after the proclamation of peace.

9—Providing for a progressive increase in taxes on large incomes, inheritances and upon land values of such a nature as to render it more profitable to hold land without putting it to the Taxation should be so slightly as possible on productive enterprise.

10—Providing for government exercise of advisory supervision over public education, and, when necessary, mandatory power to make education through subsidies and other means giving the government power to hamper development of public education by the States.

Right Into Home with the Hearst newspapers labor declares for providing for the rapid and free transportation of discharged soldiers and sailors to their homes, and the continuance of their pay twelve months, if employment is not secured within that period.

'Upward' Modish Trend of Women's Shoes and Skirts

New York, Jan. 16—"Upward" will be the natural trend of women's skirts and shoes during the coming Spring and Summer. This is the consensus of opinion of more than 200 delegates gathered here for the national convention of shoe manufacturers.

"Women's skirts will never again reach unsanitary lengths. Bloomers and short skirts, which will mean comfort, will be demanded in the future," according to one prominent delegate.

"Women's attention, for some time, will be devoted to dressing well her head and feet. We are going to help her girls many new and pretty designs of shoe appears," he continued.

Street Railways and Full Public Control

The surrender of the Bay State Street Railway to absolute public control will be an exceedingly interesting event throughout the country, for it is the longest street railway in the world, we believe.

Everywhere, as in Boston, private management of the street railways has been broken down. It has neither served the public nor the stockholders. Dividends have been paid out of capital, prosperous roads have been bankrupted by the purchase of bankrupt roads—all to the profit of insiders. Money has been spent for political control and important time of the management has been wasted to achieve control of our politics which should have gone into the operation of the roads.

We hope everywhere that the cities will oust private management and take full control. It will require a year or two of convalescence during which the sick roads will have to be nursed by a patient public. But there will be this consolation always to the public—that whatever the public expends on these roads will now go entirely to the public benefit. The only danger of this form of public control is that in some States there might be danger that when the public had nurtured the sick roads back into prosperity, a cabal of high financiers might corrupt the Legislature to pass the roads back to private management for further exploitation.

The American foresaw this danger when the Elevated wanted to provide in the law which turned it over to the public that at the end of ten years it should return to private management unless the Legislature should determine otherwise. The American, its readers will recall, vigorously opposed this provision for the obvious reason that after the Boston Elevated had been put back on its feet by the public, either in Massachusetts or in New York, there would be a lot of hungry gentlemen whose mouths would fairly water to get the road back into private management and once more subject to the good old private methods, in which the rule is the "public be damned."

The American's opposition to any such provision was successful and the law as passed provides that the Elevated shall continue under public management unless the Legislature should vote to turn it back, and with the Initiative and Referendum which we now have we need not fear any such vote if the public management of the road is successful at the end of ten years. The Bay State Street Railway comes to us in a very bad condition—bankrupt and full of other troubles. The road ahead of the trustees is long and hard. The people of the district will find in the vexations which they will have to continue to bear in their relations with this road the inexorable penalty of neglecting in the past their public duties and allowing the corporations of Massachusetts to control their public officials and the politics of their State. There is never any escape for a democracy or any other form of government from that negligence or worse which permits a few bold, unscrupulous, persistent individuals to get control of the law-making and law-administering powers of the State and thus to be enabled to grant themselves special privileges for which the public must pay dearly.

We believe that we know the capacities of three of the gentlemen appointed by Governor Coolidge as the trustees of this road. Homer Loring is an experienced, hard-working, able man, who is the father of the "service-at-cost" scheme of conducting street railways in this State. He will make an excellent member of the board.

Mr. Fred J. Crowley of Lowell is also a man of long experience on the operating side of the street railways. He knows from actual experience the needs, the virtues and the faults of the street railway employes. Arthur G. Wadleigh, city solicitor of Lynn, has distinguished himself in that position. He has proved to be an exceptional city solicitor, a good, hard-working, conscientious, unapproachable lawyer. Concerning the other two men, Messrs. Sprague and Charlton, the American knows little.

All these men understand that the eyes of the public will be upon them. We take it that they do not intend to run away at the first difficulties which they meet and that, having the experience of the trustees of the Boston Elevated, they do not intend to accept this honor without an appreciation of its perplexities and burdens.

TAKE CARE OF YOUR JOB

Because you feel that you are too big a man for your job is no reason for neglecting the details which mean so much for success in any undertaking.

As soon as you start to do this you are not only lessening your value to your employer, but you are injuring your chances for a bigger job.

You can't go forward and backward at the same time.

There is no such thing as "let up" in regard to detail without spoiling the product.

It is the detail which means big success or just as big failure.

Don't settle down and say, "I'll give them just what I think they pay me for and no more."

Do your level best to be the very best man who ever filled that certain position which you hold, even up to the minute you think of leaving.

For, of course, every man is looking for the best he can do for himself and his family nowadays.

Show that you have a principle of your own to satisfy in the quality of the work you put out, regardless of pay or whom you are working for.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

All Out at Dudley

Editor Boston American:

By no means the least of the hardships created by the inefficiency of the Boston "L" is caused by the system of changing elevated trains at present existing at Dudley street. During the rush hours, especially between 5 and 7 o'clock, about two of every three of the south-bound trains are emptied at Dudley street and at once sent back through the subway and to Sullivan square. When a train bound for Forest Hills does arrive at Dudley street the considerable number of waiting passengers who live in Roxbury, Dorchester, Mattapan and in the suburbs beyond Forest Hills are expected to and do pile into the already packed trains. The scheme is ingenious, but like most schemes benefits the schemers only. The "L" through it secures the operation between Dudley street and Sullivan square of more elevated trains than it should with its present number of trains. The hardship, even danger, caused the passengers is not considered.

Were it not so comical, the struggle for a place in a train bound for Forest Hills would be tragical to all of us who participate. As it is, it is very amusing to the younger people and even offers a challenge to those of us who take part in any form of physical combat. At Egleston Square another fierce struggle takes place, this time caused by the passengers who wish to get out. A supercilious visitor to Boston, viewing such a scene for the first time, would, no doubt, say to himself, "So this is the Hub! And the people here are paying an eight-cent fare, with the probability of an increase shortly!" Some action must and will soon be taken.

The Polish "Despotism." "Dollar-a-Year" Checks. Monroe Doctrine Meddling? 42,000 Dead Horses.

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1919.

These are interesting spots in the news:

The Bulgarians have pulled down the Turkish mosque at Sofia. Turkey would like to fight her recent ally. How will you stop that?

The Germans, having temporarily squelched Bolshevism in Berlin, are organizing an army under Von Hindenburg preparing to march against what they call "Polish despotism." How will you stop that?

A hunger stricken crowd in Petrograd, begging for bread, is fired upon by Bolshevik troops. Even Bolshevik brotherhood has to use powder and shot occasionally.

Lord Robert Cecil says he thinks the League of Nations will not interfere in any way with the Monroe Doctrine, and adds: "I think an arrangement could be made by which America could act in behalf of the league." America hopes that so far as the Monroe Doctrine is concerned the United States will continue to act IN BEHALF OF THE UNITED STATES.

This continent has been getting along pretty well with the Monroe Doctrine, much better than Europe with its Greek, Turkish and Balkan wars leading up to the big explosion. The Lord protect us from a Monroe Doctrine modified by a League of Nations.

President Wilson's urgent, almost alarmist, warning against Bolshevism appears to echo the feeling in Europe.

Orlando is called away from the Peace Conference because of Cabinet troubles and serious disagreement in Italy.

The same Lord Robert Cecil even announces that Germany may be admitted to the League of Nations if she is good. Perhaps the energy with which Bolshevism was shot to pieces in Berlin may have had something to do with that statement and with the statement that the food blockade against Germany will be modified.

More than forty-two thousand American horses were killed in the war. Those horses had just about as much to do with it, and understood as little about it, as many of the Russian, Balkan and Turkish men who marched up to be shot down.

The new director of railroads has appointed a committee to investigate safety devices—automatic control to protect passengers. Let the committee write to the Swiss government for full information. In Switzerland the people own their railroads. All safety devices are used, wrecks are practically unknown, and railroad fares paid by the Swiss are less than half those paid by Americans.

"Dollar a year" men in Washington are going to receive checks for the year's work signed by President Wilson himself. A majority will preserve the checks framed, not cash them.

Many "dollar a year" men sacrificed their business interests and rendered invaluable service to the government. Others will be able to look at the dollar check signed by the President, neatly framed, and know it represents millions of other dollars put away in profit. The unjust thing is that the public will never know which were which.

Have you money to lend? Chile, Belgium and China would like to place loans here. Chile needs money because she is thinking of fighting Peru. Poor old China, to her credit, has given up the opium trade. She has even decided to burn all the opium on hand.

What she is doing with opium is more than we did with whiskey in the United States. Instead of putting it in ammunition, or in industry, or using it for fuel in explosive engines, we poured it into the stomachs of the American people, burning out the linings of those stomachs, on the broad, patriotic ground that the country needed the money and couldn't afford to give up the tax on whiskey.

Aims of Bolsheviki Outlined by a Russian Authority

By Dr. C. Hagberg Wright

Traveler, Author of Several Books on Russia

LONDON, Dec. 20 (By mail).—The Russian revolution, now occupying the centre of the quaking world's stage, allows the careful observer to catch a glimpse of what that people really must be.

The Russian people, struggling to assert itself, has in the childbirth of the revolution given birth to a new creation, flexible, mobile, and yet persistent as are the thought and will it expresses.

This creation is the Soviet.

The trumpets of the March revolution, 1917, brought down the Romanoff dynasty, and the rejoicing of the Russian people knew no bounds. But the events immediately following had a sobering effect upon the masses. The first burning question arose: "Is the revolution safe?"

As the embodied answer to this question, sprang up the Soviet, a revolutionary creation, a child of the people's awakening consciousness. City, town, and village, as well as each unit of the army, all formed their local Soviets to safeguard the revolution.

CENTRAL COMMITTEE FORMED.

These local organs, always functioning and, therefore, always reflecting the thoughts, desires, and will of the small communities they represent, send delegates to the capital, who form the Central Executive Committee of all the Soviets of Workmen's, Soldiers' and Peasants' Delegates.

The election to the central body is carried out on the basis of party lines, so that the Central Executive Committee has always represented all the various currents and even undercurrents of the Russian revolution.

Soon after the overthrow of Czardom, the people felt that the newly-formed Provisional government of Lvov-Rodzianko-Milyukoff did not intend to part company from the general policies of the old regime. This popular feeling imparted itself to the local Soviets, which resulted in the second question: "Who is friend and who is foe?"

In other words, the Soviet was forced to explain the sense of the revolution. The first answer was an internal commotion within the Soviets, reflecting the people's questioning mind, and this commotion ended in the cleavage of the Soviet forces. Materially the split manifested itself in the first "coalition government," headed by Kerensky.

SECOND STAGE OF REVOLUTION.

This second question was made more vital and insistent by the Kornileff uprising.

It grew more and more obvious to the people that the "coalition government" was merely an expression of the old order under a new name.

In response to the new and growing popular unrest, the rift in the Soviet deepened; whatever elements irresistibly tended to the right were pushed out by popular pressure upon the left, and the result was the July insurrection.

The Soviet thus emphasized the popular interpretation of the sense of the revolution.

It is not merely a political revolution, but an economico-social revolution, and whoever thwarts its course is the people's enemy.

But if indeed this is the historical sense of the revolution, then arises a third question:

By whom and how shall the issues of the revolution be promoted and realized in life?

Of course, by the people, and by the power which expresses the people, by the Soviets. Such was the categorical answer given by the November uprising, which forever put an end to the policy of coalition and alliances of the real revolution with the representatives of the dying old order.

EXPRESS PEOPLE'S WILL.

Thus by a process of elimination the Soviet was finally purified of the elements leaning toward the right; a process which showed that, as the individual hesitates before making his choice and stamping as his will one or the other of the ideas conflicting in his mind, so the Russian people hesitated before it found and expressed its conscious will.

The Soviet made this possible.

In brief, these are the three phases passed through by the Soviet from birth to manhood:

1—It issued from the very heart of the people as guardian of the revolution.

2—While growing, it served as the pendulum, the interpreter of the revolution.

3—Fully matured as the volitional and intellectual organ of its parent, the people, it became the instrument for realizing the issues of the revolution.

Turn now to the Constitution of July.

It is too long to reproduce in full, but its political aims are clearly expressed.

BOLSHEVIK CONSTITUTION.

1—Russia is declared a Republic of Soviets of Workers', Soldiers' and Peasants' Deputies. All the central and local power is vested in these Soviets.

2—The Soviet Republic of Russia is established on the basis of a free union of free nations, as a federation of national Soviet republics.

3—The Congress of the Soviets of Workers', Soldiers' and Peasants' Deputies, considering it to be its fundamental duty to abolish all exploitation of one set of human beings by another and the division of society into classes; to suppress summarily all exploiters; to establish a Socialist organization of society and the victory of Socialism in all the countries—further decrees:

(a)—In order to establish the socialization of land, private land property is abrogated and all land is declared to be the common property of the people, and is handed over to the workers without compensation to the previous owners, on the basis of equalization of rights to the common use of the land.

(b)—All forests, mines, and waters appertaining to the State, as well as live-stock and fixtures, model estates, and all agricultural undertakings are declared to be the property of the nation.

TO CONTROL EXPLOITERS.

(c)—As a first step towards the complete possession by the Soviet Republic of Workers and Peasants of all factories, works, mines, railways and other means of production and transport, the Soviet law concerning control by the workers and the Supreme Soviet of National Economy is ratified in order to insure the power of the workers over the exploiters.

(d)—As a first blow to the international capitalistic banking and financial system, the third Congress of Soviets discusses the Soviet law concerning the repudiation of loans contracted by the government of the Czar, the landowners, and the bourgeoisie.

(e)—The nationalization of all banks is confirmed as one of the means for the emancipation of the working masses from the yoke of capitalism.

(f)—In order to abolish all parasitic sections of society and to organize social life, a universal conscription is introduced.

The Russian Republic is a free Socialist community of all the workers of Russia. All the power within the precincts of the Russian Socialist Federal Soviet Republic belongs to the whole working population of the country, represented in the town and village Soviets.

CENTRAL POWER DEFINED

The Soviets in the regions which bear a special national character may form autonomous regional unions, at the head of which, as well as of any regional unions in general, are the Regional Congress of Soviets and their executives.

These autonomous regional unions enter on the federal basis into the Russian Socialist Federal Soviet Republic.

The supreme power in the Russian Social Federal Soviet Republic is vested in the All-Russia Congress of Soviets, and in the interim to the All-Russia Central Executive Committee.
